Politics And Diets!

A political campaign is a poor time to have doctors thumping on one's frame and putting ears to stethescopes, over which they frown.

How can a fellow tell what is hurting him? Maybe his blood pressure is up over the latest telephone call which indicates a political trend which makes for unhappiness. Maybe the pulse skips and leaps like lambs in a meadow because the news from another state lends strength to hope of snatching victory from prophesied defeat. Perhaps anxiety and worry over votes, falsehoods, distortions and scheming demagogues who put their own gain above that of the state and country tighten the muscles.

But, alas! whatever the facts, unless one has the contour of a hungry shad, a diet always emerges from any medical deliberation.

In the old days physicians said, "Bleed him."

Today they say, "Take off a few pounds . . . 20 or 30 will do."

Then they add that for every pound of extra weight the heart has to pump blood through a quarter mile of plumbing.

"Take off 35 pounds," they add.

Diets

Diets have always fascinated me. Once I took off 36 pounds in eight weeks. Aside from the palsy, an inability to sleep, and a constant state of semipneumonia, I felt fine. That was in the days before vitamins and minerals were discovered. One lost quickly by living on fruit juice and buttermilk. I went back to eating and the palsy and temperature disappeared.

About two years ago a diet came out which had all the aspects of bliss. It was a steak diet. All one had to do was eat steak three meals per day and the weight would melt away and vigor would flow into the body and cause it to pulse with health; the face to beam, wrinkles to disappear, and melancholy to take wing. But, when the Republicans took off controls the maintenance of such a diet became a problem of considerable financial seriousness. As a friend said—he gave it up after watching his wife and children going drearily through a dish of frankfurters and beans while he dealt with sirloin, medium rare.

Amalgam

There were other diets, and before long I found I was trying parts of each. One said to eat meat. Another said that any protein was a sure destroyer of excess weight. It urged that one consume cheese, lean beef, ham, lamb, veal.

But, the weight seemed to argue about going. It was curious, but the best features of the best diets seemed utterly incapable of producing results.

There is a new system. It involves a powder which smells like fresh-cut alfalfa and malted milk. It is given by prescription. When stirred into an acid fruit juice, such as tomato or unsweetened grapefruit, it may be swallowed without too much of a grimace. It is so crowded with minerals, including copper, tin, iron, cobalt and a few of the more rare metals, that one fears for the industrial stockpiles. It crawls with vitamins, ranging from A to Z. There also is included a generous amount of brewers' yeast.

Still another ingredient acts to destroy appetite. After a breakfast consisting of a heaping teaspoon stirred into tomato juice, one goes briskly to work, feeling only a slight stuffiness, such as is obtained from a hearty breakfast of ham, eggs, pancakes and syrup. At noon one simply stirs again, and lunch is over.

Again, one feels as if one had dined heavily on turkey and dressing.

At dinner one eats a regular meal. Thus, in a month one has thirty meals instead of 90. The plain arithmetic of this provides the answer. It is a stark diet. There is no choice. There are no adjurations to eat smaller portions. This diet realizes the weak will of man. There is no way to cheat on it short of surrender.

A simple stir of the wrist—breakfast. Five hours later—another stir—lunch. And always ahead—like the carrot before the donkey, is dinner without restrictions—save, of course, for things that taste good.

18 Killed as Fire Sweeps Nursing Home for Aged

36 Are Injured As Flames Trap Many, Peril 100

HILLSBORO, Mo., Oct. 31 (UP)—Fire swept through a three-story nursing home for aged persons tonight, killing 18 and injuring at least 36 others.

The dead and injured were patients living on the second and third floors of the stone structure on the edge of Hillsboro.

Fire Chief Richard King said the blaze apparently started in a men's washroom on the first floor about 5:45 p. m.

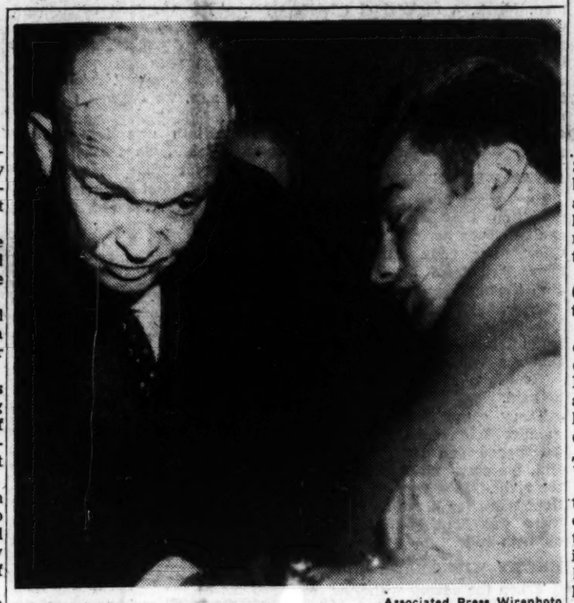

It spread rapidly up stairways and through corridors, trapping many of the victims. Sixteen of the bodies were recovered by firemen after the blaze was brought under control.

Two others, who may have been injured when they were put into ambulances were pronounced dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital, about 35 miles north of the scene.

There were more than 100 elderly patients in the building when the fire started. Nursing home spokesmen said they have been unable to account for all the patients as ambulances took both injured and uninjured to other nursing homes and hospitals in the St. Louis area.

Chief King said he was unable to make an immediate estimate of the damage. An inquest was set for tomorrow.

Most of the damage was to the upper stories.

Walker Fighting 1,000 Acre Fire

Constitution State News Service

LAFAYETTE, Oct. 31—A forest fire which has already roared across 1,000 acres on Lookout Mountain in Walker County was being fought late Friday by the Walker County Forestry Unit, according to Frank Pullen, Rome District forester.

Pullen said the fire started Thursday and that members of the Walker fire unit are handicapped by the rough terrain.

Truman Says Ike Reply on Korea Untrue

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 31. (UP)—President Truman tonight said Dwight Eisenhower's explanation of his 1947 recommendation for withdrawal of U. S. troops from Korea was untrue and "gobbledeygook."

Mr. Truman said that the five-star Republican presidential candidate "can't bring our troops home any sooner than the other good generals working on the Korean problem can."

The President said that it's all right with him for Eisenhower to go to Korea, though.

"But don't let anybody think that's going to solve everything," Mr. Truman said. "If he was wrong in 1947, there is no reason to suppose he would be right in 1953."

Mr. Truman also described the television defense of Sen. Richard Nixon, Republican vice presidential candidate, of his special expense fund as "soap opera" with "very few facts about where the money went."

President Truman ended a day of a whistle-stopping, "Give 'em hell" campaign for Ohio's 25 electoral votes for the Democratic

Stevenson Pussyfooting On Policy, Ike Asserts

By MERRIMAN SMITHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 31—(UP)—Dwight Eisenhower predicted tonight that on election day he will lead the nation out of seven years of "Fair Deal misrule."

A yelling, sign-waving crowd of 18,000 in Chicago Stadium heard the general take a flat stand against isolationism and express disfavor with McCarthyism.

He also ridiculed Adlai Stevenson as a "protege" of President Truman and an exponent of a "pussy-footing foreign policy."

Eisenhower said:

"I have long insisted and do now insist that isolationism in America is dead as a political issue."

He rejected Democratic claims that he had been changed by his conservative associates in the four months since the Republican nominating convention.

"They know I have not changed," he said. "They know my fundamental belief in Americanism. They know that I am steadfast in my basic conviction that peace is America's greatest need, and that peace for America is inseparable from peace for the world. . . . They know that I have always rejected in the domestic scene, the doctrines of the extremists. I denounce reaction just as I reject socialism."

Though the general made no reference to the speech which Senator McCarthy made in this city several days ago attacking Stevenson and his associates, Eisenhower left no doubt about where he stood in the controversy over the methods to be used in

Spring Weather Slated for Encore During Week End

Spring weather will play a return engagement in Atlanta during the week end, according to the man's report.

His "mostly fair and warmer" forecast gives promise of pleasant outdoor weather, with high temperatures in the 70s and minimums in the low 40s.

Saturday's maximum reading in the Atlanta vicinity is seen at 74, with a low of 46. Sunday morning's low temperature will jump to 48 and the high to 76. Friday's extremes were 38 and 68.

UN Batters Red Assault On Key Hill

TOKYO, Nov. 1—(UP)—United Nations troops battered back a Chinese assault on Jane Russell Hill early today, sealing up a Communist penetration that threatened to mushroom into capture of the entire Triangle Hill mass on the West-Central front.

A battalion of 750 Chinese troops drove a wedge into UN positions on Jane Russell Hill at 5:30 a. m. The Red troops who yesterday captured and held the crest of Triangle Hill in 19 hours of bitter fighting attacked Jane Russell Hill today behind a heavy artillery and mortar barrage.

United Press correspondent Victor Kendrick reported from the front that the penetration had been closed in bloody hand-to-hand fighting that still raged at last reports.

Kendrick reported that the weather cleared early today, permitting Allied warplanes to rake Chinese positions with bombs, bullets and rockets.

Jane Russell Peak is a ridge that commands approaches to the crest of Triangle Hill.

Red artillery and mortars punished Triangle with a 23,472 round barrage during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a. m. today.

Red troops attacked Jane Russell Peak in company strength at 1:15 a. m. (11:15 a. m. EST Friday) but withdrew after a brief clash with UN defenders. Four hours later the Reds swarmed back up the slopes and pushed into Allied positions.

Fighting on the main part of Triangle Hill dwindled during the night after South Korean infantrymen who had earlier refused to retreat last night broke off efforts to recapture the strategic peak North of Kumhwa guarding the route to Seoul.

Scattered hand-to-hand fighting was reported from Sniper Ridge to the east.

An enemy platoon stabbed at UN positions North of Pinpoint Hill, dominant peak on Sniper Ridge, at 10:50 p. m. yesterday. The Chinese were strengthened to a company when the attack stalled, but still could gain no ground.

At the western end of the battlefront, the Chinese attacked four UN advance positions last night and struggled without success to gain control in fights that lasted up to 6:15 a. m. (4:15 p. m. EST Friday).

GOP Offers Obstruction Only—Adlai

Thousands Roar, Cheer in Brooklyn

By JOHN E. STEELE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(UP)—Adlai Stevenson closed his Eastern Seaboard campaign tonight by telling a tumultuous Brooklyn crowd that his Republican foes could offer the nation only "opposition, obstructionism and stubborn negation."

Stevenson flew to New York at 6:50 p. m. today after bringing to an end the prison riot in Illinois.

He spoke in the historic Academy of Music where such Democratic presidential candidates as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Al Smith, and Harry Truman delivered key "Friday-before-election" addresses.

TENS OF THOUSANDS

And Brooklyn Democrats opened their hearts. Police could estimate crowds lining the streets only in terms of "tens of thousands," and it was a roaring crowd which gave him a five-minute ovation in the hall.

He charged Dwight Eisenhower with waging a campaign battle of "systematic attack" on a foreign policy which has brought the United States "to a position of world respect."

Republicans, he said, have "fallen back on the parrot-like repetition" of false charges about America's stand in world affairs.

"CHANGED HIS TUNE"

"As soon as the general took off his uniform," Stevenson said, "he changed his tune" from one of urging a stronger national defense to advocacy of major budget cuts.

He charged Eisenhower with making "irresponsible" charges and undercutting the confidence of this nation's allies in free Europe.

Stevenson said that Eisenhower's peace program would lead not to "liberation but obliteration of peoples now captives of the Soviet Union."

While Eisenhower claims an ability to speak with "cold finality" to the Russians and "roll back the Communist threat," he has failed to stipulate how this would be done, Stevenson said.

Eisenhower, Stevenson held.

Strike Settled By Lockheed, AFL Union

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—(UP)—Federal Mediation Chief David Cole announced tonight that an agreement has been reached in the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. dispute that threatened to halt production of planes for Korean combat.

The dispute directly involved 27,000 Lockheed workers in the Los Angeles area and indirectly affected a total of 35,000.

The International Association of Machinists (AFL) took the Lockheed workers out on strike Sept. 3. President Truman appealed directly to the workers to return to their jobs and they did so after being on strike for 26 days.

Mr. Truman invited representatives of the company and union to come to Washington to continue negotiations. He appealed for an end to the strike because of the impact it would have on the Korean fighting and the defense buildup.

Negotiators for the company and the union conferred here night and day for three weeks until the agreement was reached.

Lockheed produces a Navy bomber, the P-2V, and two Army jets, the F-94 and T-33. All three are used extensively in Korea.

Lewis, Hard Coal Accord Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—(INS). The nation's hard coal producers and John L. Lewis were reliably reported tonight to have reached an agreement that probably will be signed Saturday to avert a walkout of 60,000 anthracite workers Monday.

Participants in the all-day and night sessions said the UMW chief has summoned his 31-man policy group for the hard coal workers to meet with him Saturday, presumably to sign the agreement.

Drought Aid Okayed In 21 Louisiana Areas

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—(INS)—President Truman today declared 21 Louisiana parishes disaster areas and authorized their participation in the drought relief program.

These areas will now be eligible for loans from the President's emergency fund.

Hospital, Chapel Burn In Ohio Pen Outbreak; Adlai Ends Illinois Riot

300 Yield To Ultimatum, Free Hostages

By LEO ANDERSON

MENARD, Ill., Oct. 31—(UP)—Three hundred hungry convicts ended a week-long riot at Menard State Prison and freed seven hostage guards today after Governor Stevenson gave them an ultimatum and state police fired warning shots.

In the first show of force since the riot began Monday, 145 state troopers fired warning shots outside the embattled east cellblock and prepared to rush the building while Stevenson stood by in the prison yard.

The mutinous prisoners waved white cloths, freed the hostages and retreated to their cells without resistance as the armed troopers and club-carrying guards moved in.

LASTED 37 MINUTES

The operation lasted 37 minutes.

Stevenson, who interrupted his campaign to make a midnight flight here from the East, entered the cellblock with other officials after it was "secured."

Shortly afterward the governor boarded a plane at Scott Air Force Base and went to Brooklyn to resume his campaign.

Stevenson conferred most of the night with prison officials and Lt. Gov. Sherwood Dixon, who said he had decided that he would have to send in troopers. He said Stevenson concurred in the decision.

ULTIMATUM READ

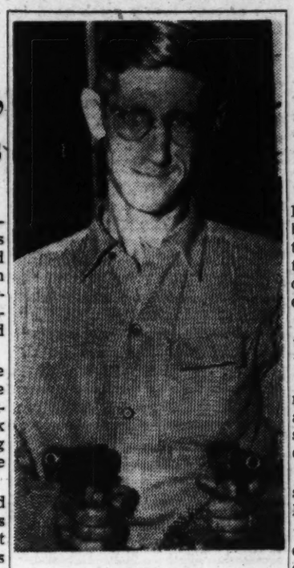

The troopers, guards and officials massed in the yard outside the cellblock at 10:05 a. m. while State Public Safety Director Michael Seyfrit stepped to a microphone to read an ultimatum prepared by Stevenson.

"Attention East Cellblock," he called, "this is Director Seyfrit talking to you. For three days now you have been advised that upon release of the seven guards you are now holding you will be immediately fed and your committee will meet with Governor Dixon to discuss your grievances across the table man to man.

"You have not accepted this offer.

"Accordingly we are going to en-

GUNS EMPTY NOW
James Francis Hill

'Maniac' Hill Gives Up at Last Barrier

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 31—(UP)—James (Three-Gun) Hill ran into one too many road blocks today after a two-week rampage that advanced him from an obscure hoodlum to top billing as a public enemy.

The bespectacled, shrunken-cheeked highwayman surrendered meekly to state troopers and deputies at the last blockade across his escape route to Georgia. He said he would have shot it out with his three guns except he feared a young couple he held hostage would get hurt.

Behind him lay a fantastic record of 26 kidnapings in four states, as many robberies, 10 car thefts and a climactic freeing of four Florida convicts from a prison road gang—all in two kaleidoscopic weeks.

Hill, 29, but middle-aged in appearance because of his seamy face and graying hair, admitted he was the man who called himself a "three-gun maniac" as he robbed and carried off victims.

"I have been a kidnaper for a long time," Hill told FBI agents who swarmed into the hunt for him and took temporary custody. "I will plead guilty to kidnaping, armed robbery and any other crime except murder or mistreatment of people I have kidnaped. I never do that."

Hill had been discharged from Florida State Prison last August and lived on the proceeds of infrequent holdups until two weeks

4 GIs Are Killed, 5 Hurt, 10th Lost In Tank Crash

STUTTGART, Grmany, Oct. 31. (UP)—Four American soldiers were killed, five were injured and one was missing today in two U. S. Army tank crashes.

At Gaildorf, near here, a heavy tank carrying infantrymen on maneuvers turned sharply, smashed through the side of a bridge and plunged 30 feet into the Kocher River.

Four injured soldiers were dragged from the stream. Two tankmen inside the tank and an infantryman riding outside, were killed.

Another infantryman was missing and was believed buried in the mud beneath the heavy tank.

A short time later, at Wolnazach near Munich, another tank broke a track and swerved into a jeep, killing the U. S. driver.

Syrian Envoy Here

New York Times News Service

600 Holdouts Quelled by Guardsmen

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31 (UP) — Rioting convicts at burned and battered Ohio Penitentiary returned to their cells tonight, virtually putting an end to the million-dollar Halloween rebellion that sent eight prison buildings up in flames.

Among burned structures were the prison's Catholic chapel and the prison hospital.

A handful of the "bad food" rioters remained out of their cells at 10 p.m., EST, but a prison spokesman said, "It's as much under control as it can be tonight."

The men returned ahead of a scheduled big push by 600 Ohio National Guardsmen.

The guardsmen were mobilizing outside the prison when a dozen die-hard prisoners armed with knives gave up and allowed their fellow inmates to return to the cellblocks.

Maury Koblentz, assistant commissioner of Corrections, said 100 prisoners still milled about the prison courtyard. But they weren't offering any particular resistance to orders.

National Guardsmen were held outside in readiness at the first sign of trouble.

Koblentz said reports that three convicts were shot during the height of the uprisings in the century-old prison were false.

"No convicts were shot," he said.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis told newsmen that no guard had been held hostage.

Both stories gained official credence during the excitement of the riot.

Alvis said most of the prisoners who voluntarily had returned to their cells had been evacuated, while cellblocks G and H were

UN Fires Trio After Clam-Up At Red Probe

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 31 (UP)—Secretary General Trygve Lie has dismissed from his United Nations staff three Americans who refused to testify before Senate investigators probing possible Communist activities among American UN employees, a UN official announced tonight.

Byron Price, assistant secretary general for UN administration, said Lie fired the three Americans from the secretariat last Wednesday on the basis of confidential reports. He said they were ousted "in the best interest of the United Nations."

Price identified the staff members as Alfred J. Van Tassel, chief of the UN economic section of the special projects division; Herbert Schimmel, an officer of the department of economic affairs, and Herman Zap, a fellow shop officer of the technical assistance administration.

The three were in a group of 10 American employees in the UN who were given compulsory leave of absence with pay after they refused to testify Oct. 22 before the Senate internal security committee.

Dictatorship Charge A Lie, Talmadge Says

By M. L. ST. JOHN

The charge that the county unit amendment will create a dictatorship in Georgia is "a lie, and the opposition knows it," Governor Talmadge declared here Friday.

Later, Blanton Fortson of Athens said the "very violence of Amendment No. 1 supporters must cause Georgians to question their motives."

The governor was talking to the Atlanta Optimist Club, as voting time next Tuesday drew nearer. He drew repeated applause when he attacked opponents of the plan to bar candidates from the general election ballot who have not been nominated in a county unit primary.

Fortson, a former judge and former gubernational candidate speaking over Radio Station WSB, cited as an example of violence the "scurrilous and unfounded attacks on the mayor of Atlanta and the Atlanta newspapers by the proponents of this amendment."

Talmadge and Democratic National Committeeman Robert Elliott of Columbus renewed their attacks on Atlanta newspapers. Elliott spoke over WSB.

The Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce expressed resentment over proponents' implications that

Hartsfield Gives Okay To Works Amendment

Mayor Hartsfield Friday took a stand against three members of the Legislature from Fulton County and Commission Chairman I. Gloer Hailey when he urged Georgians to approve constitutional amendment No. 40 in Tuesday's general election.

Hartsfield said he had talked with Ed White, attorney, who drew up the original amendment and is convinced approval of the amendment will not bar the county from participating in expressway financing.

Three members of the Legislature, Reps. Muggsy Smith and Hoke Smith and Sen. G. Everett Millican and Commissioner Hailey Thursday urged Hartsfield to join the appeal for defeat of the amendment.

When informed of the mayor's stand, Hoke Smith said he still believes the amendment was "wrongly worded." He said he preferred to have the amendment rewritten.

"I do not object to the intent of the measure," he said. Muggsy Smith and Millican were out of town.

The amendment removes the constitutional authority of Fulton County to engage in police, fire and public works activities inside the cities.

The Atlanta League of Women Voters contends the primary purpose of the amendment is to remove any doubt as to the validity

Sensible Compromise To End War Is Asked

4 Nations Urge Reds Show Give, Take Spirit in Talks

By HARRY WILLIAMS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 31—(AP)—Four countries with troops in Korea appealed in the United Nations today for a conciliatory spirit in negotiations for an end to the war.

Australia led the direct appeal to the Communists to show a "give and take" attitude in the truce talks so that fighting can be stopped through a "sensible compromise."

But Australia, with backing from the Netherlands, Belgium and Greece, echoed the Western position already firmly established in the General Assembly's Political Committee by the United States, Britain and France, that the UN command will not agree to forcible repatriation of prisoners—the issue that broke down the Panmunjom negotiations.

NOT SUING FOR PEACE

Australian Foreign Minister R. G. Casey told the committee that "neither side can get everything and give nothing," but he made it clear to the Communists that the UN is not "suing for peace."

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul van Zeeland said that "if a renewed effort at goodwill and understanding is necessary on our part . . . such an effort shall be made and this in the full measure compatible with the principles which constitute the very basis of our action."

Athanase Politis of Greece, while opposing Russia's proposal for a new commission to settle the Korean question, said the UN should "entertain in an open-minded spirit" any reasonable proposition for ending the war.

REASONABLE SETTLEMENT

Daniel J. von Balluseck of the Netherlands declared there is "ample room for a reasonable and honorable" settlement of the war—"not a peace at any price, but a just peace which may create a new atmosphere of freedom and security."

The committee adjourned before 5 p. m. to meet tomorrow morning when it will hear Nationalist China's foreign minister, George K. C. Yeh, as its first speaker, followed by representatives of New Zealand, Sweden and Poland.

Casey, in the day's strongest appeal for a conciliatory attitude, drew a simple definition of the Western stand on the prisoner question.

PRISONER STAND

"Our stand on the prisoner of war issue is very simple," Casey said. "It is based on the humanitarian principle that a prisoner of war, whose life, limb or liberty would be in jeopardy if repatriated against his will, should not be sent back at the point of a bayonet."

Casey hammered at the need for compromise in bringing the war to an "honorable conclusion."

"It takes two to make a peace," he said. "We all know that, when two people or two sides are in conflict, there must be give and take in order to end it . . . sensible compromise hurts no one's pride or honor. The struggle in Korea is no different from any other conflict in this regard."

He called for a "meeting of minds — formally or informally—which could solve the prisoner deadlock," and urged the Reds to admit that "there may be one" Communist prisoner who does not wish to return to his homeland.

Solon Sees Snyder Link In Refund

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — (AP) — A Republican tax scandal hunter accused Treasury Secretary Snyder today of "highly suspicious activities" in a $20,000,000 Hollywood tax refund case. But the Democratic chairman of the investigating group said he certainly did not endorse the Republican's charge.

Snyder retorted he was "shocked" by the accusation of Rep. John W. Byrnes (Rep., Wis.). Snyder called it "politically inspired and "false." He demanded that Rep. Cecil R. King, (Dem., Calif.), chairman of the House subcommittee investigating tax scandals, "take action immediately to correct these completely unfounded and irresponsible election-eve statements."

CURB DENIED

King replied to Snyder that he could not "control" or take "responsibility" for other subcommittee members. But he said, "needless to say, I certainly do not enclose the conclusions drawn by Mr. Byrnes in his statement."

"I have always insisted that the subcommittee's operations be run without fear or favor and on a completely non-partisan basis," King said, "and I shall insist that its operations continue in such fashion."

King told Snyder he felt sure the Treasury secretary had not aimed his retort at the subcommittee's criticism of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Byrnes charged "it seems clear" this is the "real reason" why the Internal Revenue Bureau has refused to turn over certain records on the case to House tax scandal investigators. He called it a "crass cover-up attempt."

Members of the investigating subcommittee blasted the bureau Thursday for withholding information. They said Revenue Commissioner Dunlap "dishonored" a subpoena for transcriptions of telephone conversations relating to the refund sought in 1947 by Universal Pictures, Inc. The firm actually received a refund of only $2,000,000.

UNUSUAL INTEREST

Byrnes, a subcommittee member, said he has been "informed" that Snyder was among high Treasury officials who displayed "an unusual degree of interest" in handling of the case.

Snyder's son-in-law, John E. Horton, is Universal's Washington representative, but he disclaimed any connection with the case. He said the case was settled before he went to work for the picture company in February, 1950. He said he never had discussed it with Snyder or anyone else in the Treasury department.

"That happened long before I came to work for Universal," Horton told reporters.

The subcommittee wanted to obtain the telephone statements of Charles Oliphant, former chief counsel of the Revenue Bureau who resigned under fire last December.

Bolivia Grabs Tin Mines, U. S. Interests

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Oct. 31—(AP)—Bolivia's rich tin mines, including the vast American-controlled Patino interests, were seized by troops today under a nationalization decree, and Bolivian President Victor Paz Entenssoro warned the United States not to interfere in the action.

Speaking here tonight, Paz Entenssoro said it would be an "error" for the United States to "assume an attitude which might be interpreted as protection" for the Patino, Aramayo and Hochdschild firms whose mines were taken over.

He called on other American nations to support the nationalization which he said promised a remedy for Bolivia's "near economic bankruptcy." The nation's financial plight, he said, could be blamed on the mining firms "who have sponsored oppressive and wasteful" government regimes.

Police said officials and executives of the Patino mines were prevented from leaving the company's offices after allegedly attempting to escape with "extensive and secret documents."

The nationalization decree, making Bolivia's reserves of the strategic metal state property, was signed at the Maria Barzola mine in Catavi in the presence of an emotional, flag-waving throng of 35,000 people.

Travel Bans Approved in Africa Strife

NAIROBI, Kenya, Oct. 31 (AP) — Gov. Sir Evelyn Baring, leading a fight to crush the anti-white Mau Mau secret society, was empowered today to declare any part of this British colony a prohibited area.

Under an emergency regulation published in the Special Gazette, all persons could be banned from entering or remaining in such an area unless they held special permits. Violators would be subject to arrest by police authorized to shoot to kill.

The ban will be applied, the regulation said, where it appears activities or movements of persons "into or out of such an area constitute a threat to the maintenace of public order."

Police and military authorities arrested 227 persons today for questioning in a campaign started 10 days ago, against the native terrorists.

The total arrests rose to 3,911. Fourteen natives are held in connection with the murder Monday of a British farmer, Eric Bowyer. British authorities estimate as many as 100,000 tribesmen may have taken the Mau Mau oath to drive white men from Kenya.

An African who had given evidence against the Mau Mau was found slain last night. This was the 47th killing attributed to the society.

Oliver Lyttelton, British colonial secretary, had a long conference today with the governor. He also talked with legislators and churchmen concerning the Mau Mau problem.

Troops in Korea Scoff At Ike Trip, Cocke Says

By THE UNITED PRESS

Democrats charged last night that Dwight Eisenhower's decision to go to Korea if elected president was an unwise "political maneuver" and said he should have interested himself in Korea sooner.

The statement, made in Washington, were injected into the boiling political controversy over conduct of the Korean War by Col. William H. Neblett, past president of the Reserve Officers Association, and Erle Cock Jr., former national commander of the American Legion.

Both are member of the Democratic National Committee's Veterans Advisory Committee. Their statements were issued through the committee.

THEATRICAL OFFER

Cocke said a poll of American officers and GI's in Korea by a New York Times correspondent provided what he called "convincing proof that General Eisenhower's theatrical offer to go to Korea was a political maneuver."

"Men on the front lines believe, according to the poll, that a Korean trip by the general might well result in a loss of U. S. prestige in the Far East and do not see how it could bring an end to the conflict in Korea," Cocke said.

"I agree."

In his statement Neblett said Eisenhower spent only two hours in Korea when he last visited there in 1946 as Army chief-of-staff.

RECOMMENDATION

"That sort of travel can hardly be said to be very broadening," the statement said. "If the general had stayed longer, and learned more, perhaps he would not have concurred in the recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in 1947 that American troops should be pulled out and the Republic of Korea left to defend itself."

This was a reference to a 1947 Defense department document made public by Senator Morse of Oregon who bolted the GOP to support Adlai Stevenson. Morse said the document "proves" Eisenhower favored the U. S. withdrawal.

That document also has become a bitter campaign issue with Eisenhower demanding to know how Morse obtained it. The State Department said today it still has a "top secret" label on the document.

Morse said last night in New York that the document was given him by "authorities competent to give me permission to quote them."

VAN FLEET LETTER

Eisenhower touched off the Korean controversy earlier this week by reading portions of a letter from Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander in Korea, implying that Van Fleet received no support in efforts to build up the South Korean army.

The GOP candidate used this to support his claim that South Korean units could and should be trained faster so that U. S. troops could be withdrawn from the battlefront to purely supporting positions.

In Los Angeles, the wife of Gen. Van Fleet last night disclosed she turned over to Eisenhower a copy of a letter her husband sent from Korea.

LETTER RECEIVED OCT. 23

She explained that her husband sent her a copy of a letter to Gen. Orlando C. Mood because he was too busy to write her. Van Fleet said in a note, she explained, that he hoped the enclosures would interest her.

Mrs. Van Fleet said she received the letter about Oct. 23 and Eisenhower released its contents, with her permission, Oct. 29.

The State department document, a memorandum signed by the late James V. Forrestal, has become a hot campaign issue.

At the same time State department spokesman Michael J. McDermott said he did not know who gave the memorandum to Morse.

The document said the Joint Chiefs of Staff considered the United States had little strategic interest in maintaining troops and bases in Korea for various reasons. One of these cited in Forrestal's memo to the State department was that existing forces in Korea in 1947 would be a "military liability and could not be maintained there without substantial reinforcements prior to the initiation of hostilities."

In a rebuttal statement issued Wednesday night, the Defense department said this always has been its goal although it had set no target date. It also denied any idea of recalling Van Fleet from his comcand because of the letter.

The Defense department added that the South Korean army already has been built up since the fighting started from about 30,000 men to "a well-trained, well-equipped and well-led force of over 400,000."

The Pentagon refused to say yesterday whether it was making any further investigation of the Van Fleet letter.

Meantime, a spokesman for Republican national headquarters said it was one of the biggest GOP political boons since the start of the campaign.

Jill on Way To Help Mom, Embezzler?

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31—(AP)—Pretty Jill Hollingsworth, 17, whose mother confessed in Detroit she stole $25,000 to help her daughter get a start on a film career, dropped out of sight today.

The blonde actress did not occupy her apartment last night and her landlady declined to say where the girl had gone.

Miss Hollinghworth was left sobbing by the news that her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Hollingsworth, 47, had admitted the embezzlements to help her career.

The possibility existed that Miss Hollingsworth may have gone to Detroit to help her mother. The girl said yesterday when informed of her mother's arrest, "I want to go home to help her."

The landlady, who identified herself only as Mrs. La Fluer, said today, "I expect to hear from Miss Hollingsworth's agent soon. He's going to tell me where to send Jill's clothes."

Miss Hollingsworth had been enrolled in a Hollywood talent school for the past few months but dropped out of the school three days ago.

The pretty blonde said she did not realize where the money came from to further her career. Her mother had been sending her $80 a mo[illegible] for her apartment and sent her $10 or $20 once or twice a week for other expenses.

"She insisted I take the money from her," the girl said before she dropped out of sight.

THEIR COURAGE, BRAVERY PROVED

Nearly 550 South Koreans Die In Tracks To Stem Chinese Blow

By JOHN RANDOLPH

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Oct. 31 (AP) — "It was the utmost bravery," the American major said.

"The Chinese came.

"The South Koreans stayed."

Nearly three companies — about 550 men — of South Korean infantry died in their tracks before dawn Friday when the Chinese attacked on Triangle Hill in waves.

Maj. Robert E. Galer, Bozeman, Mont., a regimental adviser with the hardy Koreans, told the story. As he spoke, Chinese artillery fire shook our crude log and sandbag lookout bunker perched on the high crest of a hill. It commanded a sweeping view of Triangle, only a few hundred yards away.

PINNED DOWN

Tiny green figures were pinned down on the bare, brown and chalky slopes by intense fire from Chinese burp guns and submachine guns fired from blasted bunkers atop Triangle.

Galer, big, yellow-haired, calm, looking like a fatherly high school football coach, leaned against a sandbag wall.

"It began at 11:50 last night," he said.

"They came from Pike's Peak against Triangle. One battalion sideslipped and hit Jane Russell Hill, the peak you can see over on the right. There was a heavy firefight there for hours and at times there was hand grenade fighting on both hills.

ENEMY WITHDRAWS

"Then the enemy withdrew from Jane Russell and seemed to back up a little on Triangle. Things were under control.

"Then at 2 a.m., they came again and all hell broke loose. There were three of our companies on the hill. The Ninth on the left, the 10th in the center and the 11th on the right. The Ninth was partly forced back but the others stayed right there in their tracks.

"Then a second wave hit the left again. The Ninth and 11th were ordered to fall back. But their commanders refused this chance for safety and counterattacked with everything they had. The Ninth fought and clawed its way back up the hill to join the other two in hand-to-hand clubbing and fighting. It was very gallant disobedience of orders.

"Then a third and fresh wave of Chinese rolled down from Pike's Peak and it was too much for our men. The Chinese came right through in several places and there was a hell of a mixup on top of the hill.

"The 10th was right on that crest. The Chinese surrounded them completely as the Ninth and 11th staggered back. They had radio contact with us for a while and then we couldn't raise them. At 3:30 a.m. we crossed them off the list.

"The Ninth was forced back down the hill. On the right, the 11th was hit from two sides by the third wave but held like a rock. Then at 5 a.m. the 11th failed to report and we crossed them off the list too.

"By that time there were Chinese in the valley between where we are now and Triangle. Jane Russell was holding under heavy attack but there was nothing in front of the Reds in the immediate vicinity except what was left of the Ninth.

"What there was left of it counterattacked again — without needing orders. When it was driven back once more there were only 18 men left.

"Then there was a lull while everybody regrouped. If those two units hadn't stayed where they were, and absorbed the Chinese momentum, and if the Ninth hadn't sacrificed itself in repeated counterattacks, the Chinese could have flooded through and smashed into our main positions. They might have been stopped there, but a night battle is a chancy business.

COUNTER BLOWS

"Any man who says the ROKs can't fight can come up here right now and go out on Triangle and see for himself."

After the lull came the dawn.

"At 6 a.m. we began our preparations for a major counterattack," Galer said. "Every machine gun, mortar and piece of artillery we had hit that crest. We worked it up and down for an hour and a half, and at 7:15 a.m. two new units and all that was left of the Ninth moved up.

"They went right up that damn hill to the top and we thought we had it made. Then through our glasses, at 10 a.m., we saw Chinese pouring onto the crest. They came out of nowhere. There was a helluva fight on top, and then our men were driven down again. Around one corner we could see the Chinese forming a human supply chain to pass ammunition up. We shot the hell out of them for that.

"Then the ROKs started up a second time, and you can see where they are now.

"What's left of the Ninth is still in the attack. How they can do it, I simply don't know."

There was a letup in the incoming artillery, so we left. There was shelling on the road back down, but it missed.

The last look through the field glasses showed the ROKs still pined down short of the crest. They were little heroic figures in green, lost on the mountainside—their incredible resolution mocking the mockers who had so often amused themselves discussing South Korean courage.

Commandant In Berlin Gets Russian Snub

BERLIN, Oct. 31—(AP)—U. S. Berlin Commandant Maj. Gen. Lemuel B. Mathewson was snubbed by high Soviet officials today when he attempted to protest the alleged Russian detention of an American officer who disappeared in East Germany.

Mathewson went personally to Soviet headquarters to ask for information on the mysterious disappearance last Sunday in the Soviet zone of First Lt. William L. Stonebraker, 37, of West Decatur, Pa.

A U. S. announcement said the Soviets refused Mathewson an audience with I. F. Semichastnov, first deputy chairman of the Soviet Control Commission for Germany and four other vice-chairmen.

The U. S. lieutenant vanished Sunday while he was driving across the Soviet zone on the superhighway linking West Berlin and West Germany.

SOUTHERN FEDERAL PRESENTS

GROWING WITH ATLANTA AND GEORGIA

It is estimated that approximately 10,000 girls have attended Washington Seminary. The great majority of these students are found in three generations of prominent Atlanta people, most of them now living in the Atlanta area and influential in church, social and civic activity.

WASHINGTON SEMINARY
Atlanta, Georgia

Washington Seminary, established in 1878 by the Misses Washington, has through its seventy-five years of faithful work grown to be an integral part of Atlanta.

Its highly trained and experienced faculty of Christian women ever hold before the students a high standard of scholarship. No less do they strive earnestly and ceaselessly by the sympathetic evaluation of each student's temperament, abilities and aptitudes for development, to build character which will grow in moral and spiritual values.

War Goes On While Ike Talks

Of all the wild double-talk coming from GOP campaign oratory, the most rash is the injection of the Korean War into a demagogic drive to get elected. The attempt to grab the votes of wives, mothers and sweethearts who have relatives and loved ones in Korea is the most cruel and heartless tactic to date.

General Eisenhower is inferring that he can wave a magic wand and settle the war as someone puts it, "like a God descended from Olympus." He even dragged another of our generals into politics, continuing a dangerous trend that could lead to eventual military dictatorship of the nation.

In June of this year, General Eisenhower said: "I do not believe in the present situation there is any clearcut answer to the present Korean War. We are there to support a principle. I don't think it would be possible for our forces to carry through a decisive attack, but I do not believe that we can retreat from the area we occupy and, therefore, I believe we have got to stand firm and take every possible step we can to reduce our losses and stand right and try to get a decent armistice out of them."

The idea for the magic Korean trip has been put in its proper place by Senator Taft's "I don't think Eisenhower or anyone else expects his presence would make the North Koreans fall over backwards." As for South Korean troops, General Eisenhower is a military man and he knows that the South Koreans are being trained and put into combat as rapidly as they can be readied and equipped.

The new vote-getting line was actually developed by one of the general's speechwriters, who just "happened" to think it might get votes. The general swallowed it, hook, line and sinker.

Who can expect the Reds to accept a truce now if there is a possibility they may secure better terms later?

Should Ike be elected, the Communists certainly will not agree to a truce until after he is inaugurated and if then, only on their own terms. The general knows this. And yet American soldiers are dying every day in Korea while the general makes it impossible to arrange a truce. What could be more unprincipled and cruel?

General Eisenhower knows that the only alternative to the honorable truce terms we have offered is a surrender to their demands or an extension of the war and the horrible consequences we face in that event. He said so last June.

Should Ike be elected president, will casual speechwriters, skilled only in the art of confusion and getting votes, make policies for the United States government? It would seem so.

If Ike is chosen president, will American policy be dictated by generals instead of calm-thinking civilians who try to see beyond today's battle to the great objective of world peace?

General Eisenhower has said many times what Adlai Stevenson said just yesterday: "We have changed the whole course of modern history by accepting world responsibility after World War II instead of fleeing from it as we did after World War I. We have undertaken to pluck the nettle of Soviet aggression. Shall we stop now because it pricks our fingers? Shall we leave it half uprooted and still able to thrive? Or shall we pull it out slowly and carefully until the roots are dragged up from the soil and the fields of human endeavor are left clear at least for the cultivation of peace?"

General Eisenhower knows there is no quick and easy way to end the Korean War. We ask him, then, to justify his making it impossible to achieve an honorable truce in an effort to stampede voters into electing him. Such action seems unprincipled and immoral. It proves him to be unfit for leadership of this nation in these critical times.

Unit Amendment Seen As Needless, Dangerous

"One wonders why the present state administration is spending so much time and money in trying to entice Georgians into voting for Constitutional Amendment No. 1 in next Tuesday's election.

"This is the so-called county unit amendment, and its purpose is to write the county unit system into the State Constitution, where, regardless of its merits or consequences, it will remain for the life of most or all of us."

The statement sounds familiar, doesn't it? But if you will note the quotation marks, you will see that in this instance it is not The Atlanta Constitution that is speaking.

No, it is not the Atlanta press this time.

The quotation is from The Early County News, published in the city of Blakely in two-unit Early County in far southwest Georgia.

"What is the need for it?" the editor in this rural county goes on to ask. "We already have the county unit law governing the state primary, and this law will remain in effect even though the voters defeat the amendment next Tuesday.

"Stripped of all its camouflage and despite all the propaganda to the contrary, it is obvious that it is a move to perpetuate the present administration in power.

"If you are confused or have any doubts about it, vote against it—and the state's primaries and elections will continue to be held as they are under the present setup—the county unit vote governing the primary and the popular vote in the general election."

We repeat—that is not The Constitution speaking. It is the editor of a county weekly whose opinion coincides with ours. He knows a threat to freedom when he sees one.

We Are United On School Program

Amidst the campaign hullabaloo, with friend at odds with friend and next-door neighbors no longer speaking, it is refreshing to find something upon which we can all agree. It is encouraging also that, despite campaigns, government goes on and the work of the people does not stop.

An item in the day's news reveals that Georgia's State School Building Authority has called for bids for construction of the first $4,249,898 worth of new classrooms under a 20-year $200,000,000 school-building program. The first bids, to be opened Nov. 28, will provide needed classroms in Clinch County. Others will follow uhtil part of the need is met in every county in Georgia.

There is an essay on government in this school-building program, too. People will get and keep the kind of government and services they want under a free-election system that allows them to express their wishes with ballots.

Georgia's school problem did not develop overnight. Her people did refuse, however, to recognize it until it had become acute. They refused to accept a sales tax to finance the needed improvements until there was no other way out. Democracy works slowly, but Georgia is now making a beginning toward meeting the needs of its growing crop of children—her greatest asset.

The future of Georgia is dependent upon the children that today are overflowing her classrooms. It is dependent upon the skills they learn, the professions they choose and their ability to make intelligent decisions through education. We cannot deny them their future by denying them their opportunity for education.

We are, therefore, refreshed and pleased to see that the long-talked-about school-building program is actually under way. It bodes better things for Georgia.

Merely Voting Is Not Good Enough

Many nonpartisan organizations in this nation are hard at work to impel our citizens to the greatest mass movement in American history—the movement to the polls next Tuesday.

A cereal manufacturer has put the "Get Out and Vote" message on his box tops. The Boy Scouts will ring doorbells. In College Park high school students have formed a "Baby Sitters Brigade" to help get parents to the polls.

The objective is to get Americans out in greater numbers than in the past. In 1948, for example, 51 per cent of eligible voters never bothered to mark a ballot. By contrast, in Belgium 90 per cent of citizens of voting age participated in a recent election.

The "Get Out the Vote" motive is commendable, but the citizen's obligation is not one of merely voting. The full exercise of his franchise requires that he vote intelligently, that his choices be made on the basis of information and thought.

That Georgians might be able to do that the Sunday Journal-Constitution will carry in summary the proposed constitutional amendments and an explanation of the mechanics of voting. Included will be a sketch of the ballot and instructions for using the voting machine.

We urge all citizens to study the candidates, the issues and the arrangement of the ballot. If they will do that, they will be able to vote more quickly and with greater assurance that they are making the right marks in the right places.

Thomas L. Stokes

Campaigns Show Sharp Contrasts

WASHINGTON—Whatever the outcome of Tuesday's presidential election, the campaign leading up to it has offered a great human story in what has happened during its course to two men—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

General Eisenhower started at the top, a household name; Governor Stevenson began, figuratively, at the bottom, unknown nationally. The general has been on a gradual descent; the governor has been on a gradual ascent. It must be conceded that the general, in effect, could hardly go anywhere but down from the dizzy pinnacle on which he stood at the outset; the governor could go nowhere but up, but how far up depended largely on himself.

The two curves of "fate" have, from all indications, been drawing closer together. The result of the election now seems to hinge upon whether the rising Stevenson curve crosses and pushes above the descending Eisenhower curve.

This is, in essence, the simple story of an amazing campaign. However, it is an oversimplification because Governor Stevenson had with him, at the outset, a potentially larger corps of followers in the Democratic Party as such. His rival for the presidency had the smaller hard core and had to add to it, from Democrats and "independents," to win.

That, of course, was why General Eisenhower became the choice of a larger number of practical Republican leaders who wanted, above all, to win. They saw in the name and fame of this military man, this political outsider, the means to attract dissenting Democrats and independents, and perhaps the only way to victory.

In going outside its ranks, the Republican Party confessed its disbelief, at least for this election, in a basic function of our American democratic system, that is, that our two great political parties can raise up leadership within their own ranks.

Departure from this principle has been perhaps the chief source of weakness in the Eisenhower campaign as it has developed. The general's main strength derived from what he was and in continuing to be himself. That became impossible because of his lack of political training and his unfamiliarity with politics and with the politicians into whose hands he had to place himself.

He has diminished from the stature accepted before he entered politics. Adlai Stevenson, on the other hand, has grown constantly in stature. He was operating in a field familiar to him from the very start, and he knew the pitfalls.

Significantly, Governor Stevenson has, by contrast, been completely himself. He has made fewer compromises than any candidate for president in our time—and no big ones. He got the nomination on his own terms and has continued to direct his own course and his own campaign. It is he, rather than General Eisenhower, who has risen above his party.

Whether it rises high enough or not, he is surely the Horatio Alger of 1952 politics—or maybe Jack the Giant Killer.

Calvin Cox

Election Means Much to Georgia

Western Union has announced the rivals for the White House have been responsible for originating 35,000,000 words of telegraphed news. The final result, however, will hinge on just one: yours.

Georgians on Tuesday will participate in an election of dual importance. One issue will be of vast national significance; the other will have a great bearing on the political future of this state. Seldom has the voter been confronted with such compelling issues.

The fight on Amendment No. 1 has been an intense one, revolving principally around the franchise of the voters of Atlanta. Although proponents of the amendment have made disclaimers that it really changes nothing—a mere shuffling of the balloting process—they have devoted thousands of words and hundreds of impassioned phrases to denunciation of "bloc voting" and other "perfidious" practices of the Atlanta electorate. Opponents, on the other hand, have charged Amendment No. 1 would create a statehouse empire with Georgia's citizens in political vassalage.

Supporters of the amendment declare that such is not the case. They see all control stopping at the county line. This approach apparently shells down to whether one would have his corn delivered in grains. The county-line philosophy covers the entire state when all the counties are counted.

The unit dispute is the great rankling sore of Georgia politics. No other state has such a wrangle, for no other state has such a system. The proponents of the unit system—and of Amendment No. 1—have extremely strong feelings about the matter. Such is evidenced by the bitter words, the great agitation, the flowing money, the drumming hail of invective. Opponents of the measure haven't spared the horses of rhetoric either.

Evidently a tremendous number of persons think the other side is wrong. The ballot on Tuesday will decide the exact proportion.

Since it is readily apparent that a large number of persons are involved in the opposing views of the unit philosophy, one would question the wisdom of making this extremely volatile issue more permanently a part of our election system.

That is what Amendment No. 1 does. The amendment would make the unit vote a part of the State Constitution. At present it merely is a law: the Neill Primary Act. The amendment, however, would require that those running in a general election be nominated in a unit-vote primary. In effect, therefore, Amendment No. 1 would place the unit system in the State Constitution.

State GOP Chairman Gives Rebuttal To Editors' Views on 'Press Gallery'

Atlanta—I would like to make a reply to the WSB-TV Press Gallery program (Oct. 22), in which Mr. McGill and Mr. Childers were interviewed by three other employees of the two Atlanta papers. Listeners had an opportunity of hearing only one side, since all five members of the panel are members of one organization which is committed to Governor Stevenson's candidacy. But let me recall the highlights:

Mr. McGill laughed off the question whether Jake Arvey (the Chicago boss who inherited the infamous Kelly-Nash machine) has any influence over Stevenson. As to Truman's influence, he said he would be out of the picture after January. Then he mentioned, as he has so often in his column, Jenner, Kem and McCarthy as the type Republicans "Eisenhower has embraced" to illustrate repeated claims that Ike has been taken over by the so-called Old Guard. I wish he would give me space to cite the manifold instances I could to show how utterly ridiculous such a propaganda line is, and that he and other Stevenson supporters are just following their candidate's "line" as they feed ammunition into the political guns.

As an example of trying to have your cake and eat it too, here are two sentences from a Constitution editorial of Oct. 21: "There have always been differences in the party. The reason we have a two-party system nationally, instead of a lot of small parties, is that the splinters can find room within the two parties."

Of course your editorial was aimed at forcing recalcitrant Southern Democrats in line for Adlai. Doesn't the proposition work both ways? After his comment about what one might call the GOP splinters, Mr. McGill added without any query from other panel members: "Stevenson isn't going to endorse McCarran; he just won't."

Since that was a little far-fetched even for his coworkers, one of them mildly replied: "But Senator McCarran isn't up for re-election this year, there is no need for Stevenson to endorse him." He made no reply.

None asked the obvious question, on the topic of Who-has-embraced-whom, as to Wilson Wyatt being Adlai's campaign manager, and the significance of Wyatt's past presidency of the left-wing A.D.A. and his association there with such young Turks as Hubert Humphrey, Soapy Williams, Walter Reuther, Blair Moody et al.

Both Mr. McGill and Mr. Childers put on a fine act of histrionics on this "embracing" topic. The latter gentleman even lowered his head as if ashamed to face the TV audience, when he referred to Ike's Wisconsin trip and how Ike, as Childers put it, "went through the shameful act of embracing McCarthy." That is poppycock. Ike was reported by all news services as showing a decided coolness to McCarthy; but if it had been as he said, let me again refer you to your Oct. 21 editorial concerning splinters.

The gentlemen went on at length, repeating "the line" used in your columns, about how Ike has been confused, contradicted himself and "surrendered to Taft." To keep within your space limitations, I must confine my answer to two words, "just bunk." But let me refresh your memory on two points, which would have been mentioned on your program if it hadn't been so one-sided:

(1) Both Ike and Adlai had the same pre-convention views on need to amend the Taft-Hartley law. Ike has stuck to that view. Stevenson, if you will allow me to use your language, has "surrendered" to labor pressure; after being nominated, he came out for outright T-H repeal. Look at Ike's statesmanship, compared to Adlai's surrender. In his speech to A. F. of L. convention in New York Sept. 17, Ike said: "Certainly you know me well enough to know that I have not come to curry any special favor. I have not come to bid or compete for your endorsement. My views toward labor will be the same as they have always been regardless of the action taken by the A. F. of L. at this convention in the matter of endorsing a presidential candidate." (See N. Y. Times, Sept. 18 issue, also the same paper for full text of Adlai's speech before the same convention three days later, following which Adlai won labor's endorsement.)

(2) Both Eisenhower and Stevenson had approximately the same pre-convention views on FEPC. Ike has stuck to that view. But Adlai "surrendered" to the Young Turks, now proclaiming himself an advocate of a compulsory FEPC. (Senator Russell calls it a "jail sentence FEPC.")

Without being prompted by his questioners, Mr. McGill volunteered this: "They say Ike showed the ability to bring the Army's conflicting personalities together, to resolve differences, etc." Answering his own statement, he said "Well, why not?" He added: "Of course, he had the authority to bring corporals and sergeants into line as he was 'over' them."

He should have been asked: "Was Ike 'over' Churchill, DeGaulle and other heads of nations or resistance movements during the war?" Also what about Ike's leadership of NATO, where his duties were to resolve conflicts of interests and nationalities among all crowned heads and prime ministers of over 20 countries, one of history's most difficult tasks of leadership?

In discussing what was called Stevenson's good record as governor, they did not bring out that he fell heir to a $150,000,000 treasury surplus left by the previous GOP governor. Despite spending this to reduce his deficits, Adlai's budgets have been the highest in Illinois history, and his last published report showed a deficit of over $47,000,000 in a single fiscal year. Also not mentioned were a counterfeit racket in cigarette tax stamps amounting to $10,000,000 a year; the horsemeat-sold-as-beef scandal which Wisconsin had warned Illinois about two years before the situation was exposed, when Adlai's food and dairies superintendent was fired along with 15 meat inspectors; that Stevenson's own executive secretary accepted 10c-per-share racing stock which paid 2,500 per cent dividends, and that his revenue director was exposed as owner of a gambling house. All were allowed to resign; none has gone to jail. Internal Revenue Bureau records show that there are more registered professional gamblers in Illinois than in any other state in the Union.

In closing, I refer to Mr. McGill's Oct. 10 front-page column. After saying "Governor Stevenson was wonderful. Honest he was," he added: "The crowd loved him. They especially liked the line 'General Eisenhower is worried about my funnybone. I am worried about his backbone.'" Concerning that quotation, I saw a cartoon recently which showed Stevenson at Washington in 1944 with a tennis racket in one hand and a soft drink bottle in the other, while Ike was shown commanding Allied troops under fire in Europe. Perhaps a little cruel, but didn't Stevenson invite it with his reference to Ike's backbone?

Joe Stalin Shows Signs He, Too, Wants Change

Milledgeville—It's very curious! According to Nephew Joe of Wisconsin and the rest of the Republicans, Uncle Joe of Moscow wants to keep the Democrats in power because they've been so easy on him. So what does Uncle Joe do? He has his boys step up the war in Korea just around election time. He gets the Daily Worker to endorse Stevenson. He keeps Brother Vishinsky from making his usual fierce anti-Acheson, anti-Truman tirade before the UN. Looks to me as if Uncle Joe thinks it's time for a change, too.

The Unit System Is Bloc Voting

In the Henry County Advertiser

The advocates of the county unit rule contend that it prevents bloc voting and the building up of a political machine in the more populous counties. The truth is, the unit rule is bloc voting.

Here is the proof: It takes about 2,000 votes in Henry County to make a unit vote, while in Fulton it takes approximately 10,000 to make one unit vote. The county unit system has done the very thing it is claimed that it prevents. It has built up a political machine in the rural counties which has dominated Georgia politics for 25 years.

Well, you know the old saying, "You can't have your cake and eat it, too." You can't have a democracy and then turn around and destroy it.

God Wants Us To Be Healthy

As a minister I am concerned with healing by faith because God is on the side of health. It is God's will for every human body to be free of disease, to be perfectly whole in body. No sickness is in according to God's will. We humans love our children and under no circumstances could we conceive of ourselves planting some germ of disease in the body of one of our children which brings to it agony and death. The idea is utterly unthinkable. Yet, a man whose wife was suffering severe pain with cancer said, "I would not treat a rat as God is treating my wife."

If disease is the will of God, if God causes people to be sick, then every physician, nurse and minister who seeks to make the sick well is working against God. We know that those who seek to bring health are workers together with God. Thus we know that health, not disease, is the will of God.

Sin is discord of the spirit. Sin is a soul out of harmony with God. In like manner, disease is discord of the body, and possibly the mind and the soul as well. Disease is a body out of harmony with God's laws and God's will.

One of the basic foundations of Christianity is salvation by faith. We are saved not by our good works but by our faith. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ," said St. Paul, "and thou shalt be saved" (Acts 16:31). We preach a Christ who is able to save the last and the least and the lost, who is able to save to the uttermost.

But why do we need to limit salvation to a man's soul? He said, "I am come to seek and to save that which was lost." Surely the Christ who healed so lavishly every manner of disease was concerned with saving not only from sin, also from sickness, from anything that separates one from God.

Healing by faith is no more unreasonable than is salvation by faith. In fact, the salvation of one's soul is far more complicated than the healing of His body. Read Matthew 9:1-8. A paralyzed man was brought to Jesus to be healed. Our Lord said, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." Some of the people present accused Him of blasphemy. So to demonstrate His power, He said, "Arise, and walk." The Christ who forgave sins also healed bodies.

I have prayed for many who died. Also I have prayed for many who got well. Why the difference I cannot explain. But I have seen enough of God's power to be able to sing: "His power can make you what you ought to be; His blood can cleanse your heart and make you free; His love can fill your soul and you will see, 'Twas best for Him to have His way with thee."

Sometimes God goes beyond physical laws and works miracles.

From Scrap Iron To Barbed Wire

As one who more than once has snagged his britches on the business end of a barbed-wire fence, I was fascinated this week in seeing how the sticky stuff is made. You can do that in Atlanta—out at the Atlantic Steel plant at the end of State Street. At one end of the workings scrap iron goes into a fiery furnace, either open hearth or electric. At the other end it comes out as barbed wire or fence or cotton ties or baling wire or nails, all of which Moreland Moncrief and Mike Weidel of the steel company's ad department plugs as "Dixisteel." Between scrap and finished product there comes a lot of heat and hard work, some of it so strenuous the men take 30-minute shifts.

Atlanta-born Bob Knox, assistant manager of the shipping department, took me through the mill in a prepress prevue. We saw the process from open hearth to nails in kegs.

We watched Paul Duke, foreman of the new electric furnace, call signals as his crew readied the oven for a visit from Ben Fairless, president of United States Steel. The boy never had a busier afternoon when he was passing the ball from center on Tech Flats. Paul spent the summer in Chicago learning how to get the most out of the huge electric toaster which within four to six hours reduces scrap iron to molten metal stream.

Finally, we inspected Atlantic Steel's new warehouse, completion of which was occasion for company President Bob Lynch to declare open house yesterday and today. The warehouse, with more floor space than a football field, will be the steel company's retail headquarters.

Atlantic Steel is a great asset to Atlanta and Georgia. It's still open house at the warehouse and electric furnace from 10 to 5 p. m. today. If you can go, don't miss the chance to see the mill in action.

Reminds me of a somewhat similar case in Cobb County where the coroner's jury ruled. "The man died a natural death caused by overintoxication."

Duke's Turn at the Wheel

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 31—For what it's worth: If you've never seen a city bursting with anticipation, you should be here. The air is crackling here, streets jammed, hotels hopelessly outnumbered and even goblins are not safe out. Halloween, homecoming and Hardeman. . . . The man who wins this game, Dodd of Georgia Tech or Murray of Duke, can claim he outcoached the other. There's no other clear margin between these two teams on which to establish a foundation for a favorite. . . . And will Tuesday's electoral drama be entitled "The Ikeman Cometh?"

The official payoff will say that this game is a sellout of 45,000, though 57,500 saw Duke play North Carolina in 1949. They put in the extra 10,000 seats at Duke Stadium only the seasons when UNC plays here. And 57,000 won't happen again until necessary expansions are made. Eddie Cameron, the athletic director, says it overtaxes all facilities, especially the parking areas. . . . That '49 mob developed the worst traffic hangover ever seen by a Methodist. It was three hours before some cars moved a foot. . . . And do you remember when they called Wallace Wade's team the "Iron Dukes"?

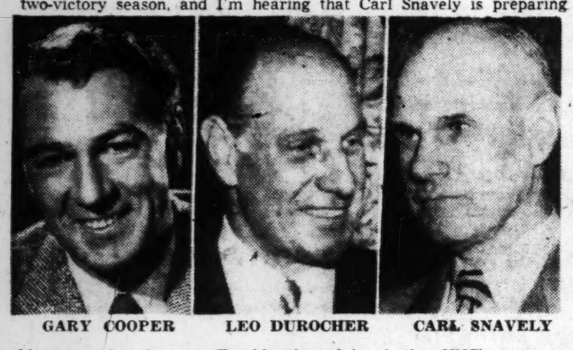

Bisher

There are points around the Southern Conference, including one as near Maryland as Washington, where you'll find delegates strongly favoring Worth Lutz over Jack Scarbath as a split-T quarterback. . . . This game's getting the national eye, including photographic treatment by Life magazine, and the tonsil treatment by Bill Munday, rising and shining for CBS, and Bill Stern, who'll imagine it for NBC. . . . And whatever became of Ted Husing?

That Miami lawyer who's directing young Peter Schultz' case against Florida and Bob Woodruff is only 100 per cent wrong when he says it's the first suit of its kind. An ex-halfback named Mack Grandy sued Peahead Walker and Wake Forest for injuries, etc., about three years ago. Last I heard it was still in the works, though halfback Grandy was making like a baseball pitcher and acting rather tol'able. . . . Name of the week: Otis Dypwick, who directs athletic publicity at Minnesota. . . . The Army has removed another of our young staffers, Ernie Hynds becomes a soldier next Monday with our regrets.

—Snavely May Write His Own Farewell

While Duke rides at the top of the football ferris wheel, 12 miles away at North Carolina there is concentrated gloom. The Tar Heel constituents are being prepared, as subtly as possible, for a one-or-two-victory season, and I'm hearing that Carl Snavely is preparing his own resignation. . . . Trouble, they claim, is that UNC's entrance requirements are so high that such exceptional Pennsylvania students as Ed and Dick Modzelewski couldn't get in. . . . This doesn't sell many skeptics who'll pick up a Duke roster and show you that 24 Blue Devils are home-bred. Those two dozen aren't just guys, either. They're key figures like Lutz, Keziah, Meadows, Burrows, Green, the Smith boys, Pitt and Grant.

Things are so bad at Carolina that the head cheerleader came out for the team the other day. They should at least have livelier huddles from now on. . . . Gary Cooper is playing around these parts in a thing called "Springfield Rifle," which represents one of Hollywood's best casting jobs of the year. He's the only star I know slim enough to fit the barrel. . . . And whatever became of Sabu, the Elephant Boy?

This new Truman-Ike sour grapes relationship reminds me of the Leo Durocher-Chuck Dressen reversal of emotion. When Dressen was Durocher's coach, Lippy often chortled possessively over Chuck's baseball genius. But when Dressen went out on his own he suddenly became an incompetent bungler to his old boss. . . . And is merrie auld England braced for the impact of Sterling Slappey's arrival as His Majesty's sports editor for Associated Press? He's replaced in the Atlanta office by Mercer Bailey, a scholar and a gentleman with talent.

—Have a Look at Those Yale and Harvard Men

N. C. State staggers to its feet barely in time to get decked again from Saturday to football Saturday, but Everett Case, the basketball man, says his freshmen are the best he ever saw. That's one athletic department that lives indoors. . . . Have you noticed that bright new gleam in the orbs of Yale and Harvard men? They're proudly dusting off old pennants for "the big game" this year and saying "we" when speaking of the "big three." . . . That Jordan Olivar twist at Yale must have TV artist Herman Hickman biting a little deeper into his stogie.

While the Chicago Bears suffer from the blind staggers in one of their worst years, Whizzer White set a team record for retreat last Sunday. He was chased 51 yards back to his own two-yard line, where he fumbled and the Los Angeles Rams recovered for a soft TD. . . . Oklahoma's Buddy Leake, a Memphis boy, booted seven straight extra points last Saturday, ran his string to 25 and broke the record of 22 set by Billy Booe of Yale in '48. . . . And whatever became of Leo Costa?

If you don't believe that Stetson's too hot for Notre Dame this year, check this. The little Florida school beat Furman, which beat West Virginia, which beat Pittsburgh, which beat Notre Dame. How about a Big Ten membership? . . . And in case you've been busy lately, Sewanee is undefeated, untied and unconcerned. . . . Now to pull on my witch's bonnet and devil's mask, get a loud horn and tantalize Duke supporters. . . . Selah.

Duke, Tech Go Before 45,000

Jackets Favored at Durham On Basis of Superb Defense

By FURMAN BISHER
Constitution Sports Editor

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 31—A Georgia Tech team that has pitched three successive shutouts throws its nationally supreme defense at Duke's greatest Blue Devils since 1941 in the South's football match of the year Saturday afternoon.

The kickoff time is 2 p. m., by which hour every available seat in 45,000-capacity Duke Stadium will be filled, and a few thousand more people will be milling about outside looking for tickets that don't exist.

As for a point spread, there almost isn't one. The latest expert opinion rates Tech a one-point favorite, but that's strictly for betting purposes. On the face of it, Tech, with its throttle-out running game and its quick, smart defense, would seem to have a whole touchdown edge.

That's strictly for those who ride with a winner until it falls. Tech hasn't lost in 20 games, but this is the team that last held it even, 14-14, on a bitter cold Saturday last November in Atlanta.

For the second week in a row Duke will be scuffling with the No. 1 defensive team in the nation. Virginia held that rank last weekend, but when the Blue Devils were done, the Cavaliers had slipped to sixth place. Duke itself now ranks fourth.

It is significant that Duke wasn't up to full strength for that game. End Bill Keziah, fullback Jack Kistler and sideback Nick McKeithan were relatively inactive. But the Blue Devils are at full power this week.

Tech will be also, except for Larry Ruffin, who's down and out until Georgia. The Yellow Jackets flew in Friday morning, worked out briefly in Duke Stadium Friday afternoon, then retired to their Sir Walter Hotel headquarters in Raleigh to weather the Halloween storm.

This game has stirred up the most football excitement in the Carolinas since Duke played Oregon State in the transplanted 1942 Rose Bowl match in Durham.

This Tech-Duke affair will have more staffing, more photographers and more radio than any Duke game since that Rose Bowl date.

This is advertised primarily as a test of the manly art of defense. But that's misleading. Both these teams can move the ball. Tech has scored 168 points winning its sixth this season, Duke 165. But Tech's schedule has been more exacting, Florida, SMU, Tulane, Auburn and Vandy tough guys against SMU, Tennessee and Virginia, the top-drawer opponents on Duke's schedule.

Tech will look into these major features of this heralded Duke team: (1) Worth Lutz, the quarterback whose passes as a halfback tied the Jackets last year, and (2) a terroristic defensive line featuring All-America tackle candidate Country Meadows.

There is presented also a rather interesting passing situation. Duke passers, mainly Lutz, have not thrown an interception in 53 attempts. On the other hand, Tech's secondary has intercepted 16 passes. At any rate, it stands to be an interesting contest, this match between Lutz and Bill Brigman, Tech's sophomore hero.

It's a shame, but this is the last in the current Tech-Duke series. The schools agreed last year to

Bama Given 7-Point Edge

Tide's Starr Replaces Hobson Against Bulldogs at Birmingham

Special to The Constitution

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 1—Wallace Butts Saturday brings his patched-up Georgia Bulldogs to Legion Field for the sixth time to do battle with Alabama.

Some 35,000 fans are anticipated with 70-degree weather and clear skies forecast. Kickoff is 2 p. m. (CST).

The Crimson Tide, tripped only by Tennessee this season, rules a seven-point favorite in most quarters, although the results of their only mutual opponent — LSU — would indicate Georgia to be stronger. Alabama trimmed LSU, 21-20, while Georgia beat the Bengals 27-14.

Georgia and Alabama have one of Dixie's oldest rivalries, dating back to 1895. Alabama leads, 19 to 15, with three ties.

The modern series was resumed here in 1941 after a lapse of six years.

All of the games, during Wallace Butts' time at Georgia, have been toss-up games to the last quarter, except in 1948 when Jenny Rauch led a devastating Georgia offense to a 35-0 victory.

Alabama, however, has triumphed every year since that disaster: 14-7 in 1949, 14-7 in 1950 and 16-14 last year at Athens.

Both Georgia and Alabama have key men ailing, the Tide's all-American candidate right halfback, Bobby Marlow, and star split-T quarterback, Bell Hobson, have leg injuries.

Marlow is still limping from a pulled muscle received in the State game. Drew said he'll start Bob Conway, a backfield jack-of-all-trades, at Marlow's right half post.

Other 'Bama cripples include left half Bobby Luna, tackle Billy Shipp, end Jerry Lambert, and a half-dozen others.

The Bulldogs got a break with return to active duty of right tackle Jim Farish. He has missed the last four games. Farish's reappearance in the line-up allowed Butts to return Capt. Bob West to his regular spot at right end.

RUMOR SOUTHERN TO LIFT BOWL BAN

By WILL GRIMSLEY

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 31—(AP). Reports that last-minute bars may be let down to permit Maryland and Duke to play in bowl games buzzed throughout the Southern Conference today. But there was no substantiation in official quarters.

Wallace Wade

"I know of no move to have the Southern Conference rule rescinded," said Wallace Wade, Southern Conference commissioner. "Also, as far as I know there will be no meeting before the regular league session Dec. 12."

Dr. Hollis Edens, Duke University president and leader in the conference action a year ago to ban post-season activity said:

"We are in the conference and we will abide by its decision on the bowl matter."

Duke, unbeaten going into tomorrow's vital clash with Georgia Tech, is considered prime bowl material. So is Maryland, No. 2 nationally.

Maryland authorities have announced they will shun bowl offers this year in order to win back their standing in the conference.

Despite these statements, it wouldn't be surprising to see the Southern Conference change its mind regarding bowls at the December meeting.

Gordon Gray, president of North Carolina University and one of the spearheads in the original anti-bowl movement, has been quoted as saying recently he felt bowl policies were a matter for the National Collegiate Athletic Association to decide rather than the individual conferences.

The N. C. A. A. declined last year to banish bowls but instead set up a committee to study the problem and report at next January's meeting.

Since bowls must have their answers before Dec. 12, the date of the Southern Conference meeting, it would take a special meeting or a special poll of members to make Duke and Maryland eligible for consideration.

Bisher Praises Tech Backfield In Magazine

The hottest team in Dixie, Georgia Tech, is publicized in an article by Furman Bisher, sports editor of The Constitution in the current issue of SPORT magazine, now on sale at news stands.

"The Hottest Backfield in Dixie," features the rise of such Yellow Jacket stars as Leon Hardeman, Bill Brigman, Larry Ruffin and Bill Teas.

Brumley Tops Chick Evans

PINEHURST, N. C., Oct. 31—(AP). Judd Brumley, a bespectacled hotel man from Greeneville, Tenn., knocked veteran Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, out of the North-South Seniors Invitation golf tournament today, scoring a 3 and 2 semifinals victory.

Brumley eliminated the former National Open and amateur champion by fashioning a one-over-par 36 at the turn and shooting an even par going into the 16th hole.

The Tennessean will meet Norfleet P. Ray of Pinehurst in tomorrow's finals. Ray.

Sugar Bowl Favors Tech, Win or Lose

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 31—(AP)—Win, lose or draw against Duke Saturday, Georgia Tech is the No. 1 choice for the Sugar Bowl.

Two representatives of the Mid-Winter Sports Association in New Orleans, A. N. Goldberg and Monk Simons, are due in to watch the big game at Duke Stadium.

It was learned reliably that the New Orleans promoters are ready to offer Tech the bid right now, without any further ado.

Coach Bobby Dodd of Tech said, however, that he permits his athletes to choose the bowl they play in by vote and that this ceremony is usually held up until after the campaign.

Last year Tech's football players chose the Orange Bowl in Miami. They could do so again, but it's said squad sentiment is likely to be for a change in scenery.

"The boys want to go where they can enjoy themselves and have a good time and they always enjoy Miami," Dodd said.

If Georgia Tech goes to the Sugar Bowl, it's reported the choice to furnish the opposition is unbeaten Villanova.

Tech is the fourth-ranking team in the country, behind Michigan State, Maryland and Oklahoma, none of whom can accept a bowl bid. Duke is sixth-ranked in the Associated Press poll but also is barred from bowls by conference ruling.

UCLA Tackles California in Tangle for West Coast Supremacy

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—Football savants who search out all-America talent can concentrate on two big games tomorrow and send their second-string assistants to check upon the other prospects.

There's an impressively big and strong college schedule to usher in the first Saturday of November, but nothing to compare with Georgia Tech-Duke and UCLA-California in respect to ability and excitement.

When a Duke supporter said recently that the Blue Devils presented a problem to the all-America selectors because they had at least six or seven prospects, he was just echoing the sentiments of followers of the other three teams.

Listing a few names: Leon Hardeman, Billy Teas and Buck Martin of Tech; Worth Lutz, Bobby Burrows and Country Meadow of Duke; Don Moomaw, Bill Stitts and Chales Doud, UCLA; Johnny Olszewski and Chuck Martucci, California—and enough others for several eyefuls.

Georgia Tech, the No. 4 team in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll, and Duke, No. 6, will be scrapping for the mythical championship of the South. But the Southeastern and Southern conference titles won't be at stake. Since the Southern Conference reportedly is ready to rescind its bowl ban, both may be considered as prime candidates for Jan. 1 bids.

UCLA ranked seventh, is one of two unbeaten and untied Pacific Coast Conference teams. The other is Southern California, idle this week. And California, beaten last week, has about an even chance of getting back into the race for the title and Rose Bowl by winning today.

There aren't many other games of interest to fans concerned only with championships and post-season prospects but there are interesting angles to most of them. For instance, top-ranked Michigan State takes on Purdue, co-leader of the Big Ten, which State won't join officially until next year.

Purdue, rated eighth, could produce an upset here. Maryland, the No. 2 team, apparently has an easy victim in Boston University, but the duel between Jack Scarbath and Harry Agganis, two of the best T-formation quarterbacks in the business, should keep the fans on edge.

Oklahoma, No. 3, and Kansas, No. 9, rivals for the Big Seven title, are the only other first ten teams listed for action tomorrow. They're favored over Iowa State and Kansas State, respectively.

Below the top ten, the program is all cluttered up with games that should be good, hard-fought affairs. There's Penn, the Ivy League co-leader, against its neighbor, Penn State; there's Michigan, bidding for the undisputed Big Ten lead, against under-par Illinois; there's Notre Dame-Navy, always a good one, at Cleveland and there's Georgia-Alabama, Auburn-Florida and North Carolina-Tennessee as secondary attractions in the South and Southern Methodist-Texas and Baylor-Texas Christian in the Southwest. There's the weekly treat for televiewers, Ohio State against Northwestern.

Some of the other good attractions include: Indiana-Pitt, VMI-Army, Dartmouth-Yale, Detroit-Fordham, George Washington-West Virginia, Louisiana State-Mississippi, Mississippi State-Tulane, South Carolina-Virginia, Holy Cross-Marquette, Iowa-Minnesota, Missouri-Nebraska, Wisconsin-Rice, Arkansas-Texas A & M, Colorado-Utah, Wyoming-Brigham Young and Washington-Oregon State.

Ole Miss To Tackle LSU in Family Feud

Rebels Favored in Oxford Game; Gators Picked Over Plainsmen

By BERT PRATHER

Mississippi's twice tied but still unbeaten Johnny Rebs entertain battered Louisiana State at Oxford, Miss., Saturday afternoon in what could be one of the SEC's most bruising battles.

The game marks LSU's first appearance at Oxford in 25 years, and according to the folks who make the line, it could be anything but an enjoyable afternoon for the Tigers. The Rebs are picked to win by one to two touchdowns.

In another family feud, Auburn's Tigers move into Gatorland for their annual joust with Bob Woodruff's frisky University of Florida eleven. The Gators are favored, but the Plainsmen are not counting this one a lost cause yet.

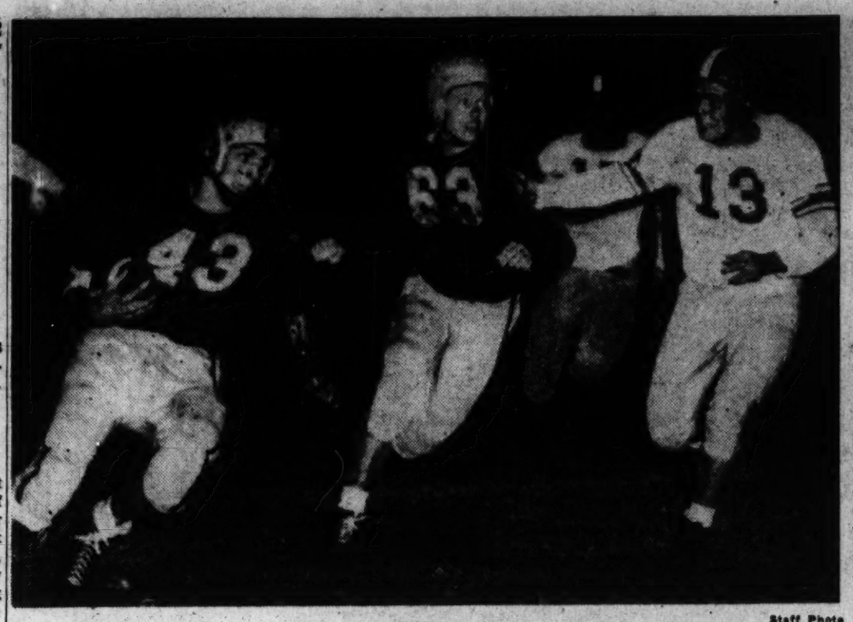

Tulane's Greenies, still striving to get back in top gridiron society, serve as host to Mississippi State at New Orleans and are favored to step up a notch in the Southeastern Conference standings. The Wave has too much offensive for the up-and-down Maroons.

Another big loop game is set for Birmingham where Georgia's Bulldogs, rudely handled by Florida last week, goes against Alabama. The Tide holds the whip hand in this one, according to the railbirds.

The other league members are slated against outside foes. Top one, of course, involves Georgia Tech against Duke's Blue Devils before a sellout crowd of more than 45,000 at Durham. This battle between two of the country's undefeated giants is rated almost a tossup. In some quarters, the Jackets are 1½-point favorites.

Vanderbilt, recovering from last week's shellacking at the hands of Georgia Tech, takes a breather against Washington & Lee's weak but willing Generals at Nashville, Tenn., and Tennessee, loser only to Duke, celebrates homecoming against North Carolina's Tar Heels. The Vols get a big edge here.

Murphy Grabs City Loop Lead, Hands Grady First Defeat, 6-0

Juhan Scores On Blair Pass

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Murphy Eagles hatched a first-quarter touchdown and gave it all the protection of a mother hen with a lone chick as Grady's Grey Knights felt the sting of defeat for the first time this year Friday night at Grady Stadium. The 6-0 decision, witnessed by a crowd of 7,000 fans, gave Coach Max Ivey's winners the inside track for the Northern Division City League championship.

The Knights, who were to give the Eagles a rough time the remainder of the night, made the Murphy scoring task easy. Grady was in possession at its own 34-yard stripe midway the first period when a "busted" signal caused a snap from center to go awry. End Billy Hester claimed the bobbing ball for Murphy at the Knights' 15.

Quarterback Richard Blair reeled off seven yards on a keep play, but C. W. Seabolt was slammed down for a four-yard loss. Then Blair found end Bob Juhan looking lonesome in the left-hand corner of the end zone and lofted him a 12-yard scoring aerial. Purcell's conversion attempt was blocked by tackle Harry McDevitt and scoring was over for the night.

Murphy had a definite edge, outgaining the Gradyites 190 net yards to 126 and penetrating inside the Grady 20 four times. Runs of 15 yards by Seabolt and 27 by Purcell and a 10-yard Blair-Juhan pass put the Eagles on the Grady 10 as the half ended. A 36-yard push, sparked by ground horsing along by Blair, Seabolt and Purcell, failed by a yard to net another touchdown in the fourth quarter, Seabolt slashing nine yards to the one on the game's final play.

150	Yards Rushing	105

The real heros on both sides were members of the up-front corps that hurled back surge after surge. Guards Max Butler, Carl Franklin and Robert Smith, tackles Roy Vickery, Mike Anderson and Bob Tidwell and flankmen Juhan and Hester were chiefly responsible for containing every Grady threat. Mike Trotter, Walter Stovall, David Meyer, Norman Bush, Walter Childs and McDevitt slowed the Murphy ground assault to a walk many times.

The lad who had most to do perhaps with putting the Grady offense in the deep freeze was Hal Davis, 165-pound tenth-grade fullback who plays for keeps. After Murphy's touchdown, substitute Davis hurtled downfield with malice aforethought and smashed into ball lugger Wilbur Lofton so hard that both were knocked out.

Lofton, Grady's big carrier all year, came back later but never was much of a threat. Another Davis—Jeff—did handsomely in taking over the ball lugging load, gaining 64 yards in 13 totes. He hauled punts back 25, ten and ten yards and completed passes of 10 and three yards to Allen Ecker and Bush, but it was more than a one-man job on such a bad night out.

Purcell and Seabolt were the most effective carriers for the Eagles in their fourth league victory without defeat and their seventh triumph in eight outings. Sega

Cats Smash Miami Behind Meilinger

Big End Turns Quarterback In Kentucky's 29-0 Shocker

Special to The Constitution

MIAMI, Oct. 31—Kentucky's rejuvenated football forces, sparked by end-turned-quarterback Steve Meilinger, turned in one of the South's juiciest upsets Friday night when they completely outclassed Miami's favored Hurricanes, 29-0.

The victory was surprising. The margin was shocking. Favored by seven points, Miami actually never was in the game, which was played on a field muddy from an afternoon downpour.

Meilinger, described by coach Bear Bryant as a "great" player, was just that this time. He was a surprise starter at quarterback, played his regular end position for variety, and had a hand in almost every Kentucky score.

After powering to a two-touchdown lead the first half, the Wildcats used their new-found potence to score a field goal and touchdown in the third quarter and closed out the final period with another surplus six-pointer.

KENTUCKY	Yardstick	MIAMI
18	First Downs	10
293	Rushing Yardage	32
70	Passing Yardage	86
7	Passes Attempted	17
3	Passes Completed	10
1	Passes Intercepted	1
7	Punts	9
30.3	Punting Average	29.3
1	Fumbles Lost	0
25	Yards Penalized	15

Bob Bassitt booted the field goal from the seven. Dick Shatto tallied the third-period touchdown on an eight-yard quick-opener. Meilinger got the finale on a one-yard buck after tossing to end Clyde Carlig on a 49-yard pass play.

Kentucky took a surprising 13-0 lead the first half as Coach Bear Bryant's strategy paid off. Bryant inserted his great end, Steve Meilinger, at quarterback, and although he was operating at the ball-handling position for the first time, the 210-pounder made the Wildcat attack go. Meilinger, Ralph Paolone, 204, and Allen Felch, 195, all power backs, found the waterlogged field to their liking.

Meilinger sparked the first touchdown scored in three minutes and six seconds of the second period. He ran for 11 and 22 yards on quarterback keep plays, then handed off to Paolone, who circled left end for the final six yards.

Herb Hunt took over the quarterbacking after that and culminated a 47-yard drive with a 10-yard scoring pass to Meilinger, who was operating from his regular left end berth. Bob Bassitt's extra point kick was good this time after he missed his initial try.

Miami opened the game with aerial forays—surprising in the slop and slush that was the Orange Bowl field, But although Hurricane quarterback Don James completed his first five efforts, Miami was unable to muster a serious threat. Three times the Hurricanes squeezed past midfield into Wildcat territory, but were checked by the stern Kentucky defense each time.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 31—(AP)—The 32-man Mississippi College football team arrived Friday and worked out briefly in preparation for the game with Colgate Saturday.

Villanova Rallies Late To Tie, 20-20

VILLANOVA, Pa., Oct. 31—(AP)—Rallying behind their driving fullback, Captain Bob Haner, Villanova College preserved its unbeaten record Friday night by scoring three times in the final half for a 20-to-20 tie with the rugged Parris Island Marines.

Haner, a 200-pounder who hit the line with real power, and also has amazing speed in the open, counted all of the Villanova points. He crashed over from short range twice in the third quarter when the Wildcats were trailing 14-0. Then in the final period he sprinted 40 yards for a touchdown on a handoff from quarterback Bill Brannau for the tying score, as his placement kick for the extra point was good.

The Marines, a big team listing several former college and pro football stars, had figured to be a real threat to the Villanova streak of six straight. They were more than a threat through the first 35 minutes of play, completely overpowering the Wildcats in the first half and tallying twice more in the third quarter.

Sam Vacanti, the Parris Island quarterback, scored the first touchdown from the 1-yard line and kicked the first two extra points. Bill Mixon tallied the second touchdown on a four-yard drive and Leo Elter scored the third from the 2-yard line where the Marines had been carried by a pass from Vacanti to Bill Hayes.

But the fired-up Villanova team, behind 14-0 at one point and a little later trailing 20-6, started rolling on Haner's power drives and a mixture of running plays with Ben Addeigo and Gene Filipski carrying the ball.

Score by quarters:

Clemson Stuns Boston College

BOSTON, Oct. 31—(AP)—Flashy Billy Hair harnessed enough of Clemson's great single wing offensive power to spark his victory-starved Tigers to a 13-0 win over Boston College's sluggish Eagles in an intersectional football clash Friday night at Braves Field. The win, more decisive than the score indicates, broke the Southerners' four-game losing streak.

Hair, plagued by a shoulder injury during all of Clemson's setbacks, again met with misfortune in the third period, when he suffered what appeared to be a wrenched knee attempting an off-tackle slam.

The Tigers started wilting as soon as Hair retired and, since Boston College never really threatened, his early touchdown appeared enough to decide matters.

But passer Jimmy Kane, who gave his most disappointing performance, gave Clemson another marker by fumbling a fourth down heave on Boston's 3. From there Red Whitten took two smashes to score and Charlie Radcliff made good with his second conversion try.

While Boston College, beaten only by Villanova in its five previous starts, was suffering its first shutout in 21 games, it was outrushed in the top-heavy margin of 228 yards to 50.

Rice Nominates UCLA To Tumble California Today in Battle for Bowl

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—There is a slight lull in Saturday's roundup, with two featured games on the docket. They will include the meeting of unbeaten UCLA with once-beaten California. This contest will have a large bearing on California's entry in the Rose Bowl. If the Uclans win over California, as Southern California did, the Rose Bowl decider moves up to the UCLA-Southern Cal game on Nov. 22. Duke and Georgia Tech, both unwhipped, offer a game just as important.

Grantland Rice

Michigan and Purdue, now favored to carry the Big Ten fight down the stretch, may settle their argument on Nov. 15 when they meet. These two teams have the jump on the field with Michigan State barred from any sniff at the Pasadena roses. And all Purdue has to do this Saturday is face Michigan State's 61 players! Unbeaten Maryland is in no big danger.

THE EAST

Army-Virginia Military Institute. Two pretty fair military schools. Army has run into tough luck but the potentials are there, plus Blaik's fine coaching. Army should take this one deftly. Maryland's flying mastodons should handle Boston U. and Columbia, still scrapping valiantly, should send Cornell's hapless Big Red further downhill.

Colgate should beat Mississippi College. Colgate's record has been extra good.

Princeton has much too much for Brown.

Dartmouth-Yale. Yale for years has been a jinx to Dartmouth. That jinx, with Yale improving each week, should be in evidence again Saturday in an Eli victory.

Harvard, getting better and better, has the call over Davidson. Holy Cross has the nod over Marquette.

Navy-Notre Dame. Navy tied Penn, 7-7, as Notre Dame did. A first-class contest. Notre Dame.

Pittsburgh, after last season's crash, keeps you guessing. Indiana only fair. Pittsburgh.

Temple over Rutgers and Villanova over Parris Island Marines. Pensylvania-Penn State should be a fine game. Penn isn't Michigan State but gets the nod.

THE SOUTH

Duke-Georgia Tech. The two best teams in the South. Both untied and unbeaten. This is a game that could easily be rated a toss-up. Just a slight edge to Georgia Tech.

We like Alabama over Georgia, Florida over Auburn, Mississippi over Louisiana State, Virginia over South Carolina, Vanderbilt over Washington and Lee, Tennessee over North Carolina and Tulane over Mississippi State.

THE WEST

UCLA-California. This game will be played at Berkeley. The Uclans have some injured stars and California is due to bound back. But the pick is UCLA in a rough party—especially if Cameron is ready to go.

Minnesota, with Giel, is named over Iowa. Michigan rates over Illinois, Ohio State over Northwestern, Kansas over Kansas State.

Michigan State-Purdue. One of the best games of the day. Purdue has a strong team, but Michigan State has too many guns of larger caliber. Passers Yewcic and Samuels should feature show. Michigan State to win.

Wisconsin is named over Rice, Nebraska over Missouri, Texas too good for Southern Methodist, Baylor over Texas Christian, Washington over Oregon State.

Cadets Sweep Out Castle Heights, 35-0

Cook Directs Bombardment With Three Scoring Passes

By REX EDMONDSON

Georgia Military Academy unleashed its potent backfield weapon, featuring 16-year-old Jimmy Cook in the driver's seat, and lowered the boom on previously undefeated Castle Heights, 35-0, Friday night at College Park to continue its hot pursuit of a Midsouth Conference title.

Les Fouts' Cadets grabbed the reins early and with Cook wielding the whip, lashed the Tennesseans unmercifully. The GMA quarterback passed for three touchdowns and scored a final one on a line buck after a 37-yard run late in the fourth quarter. A Lee Hale-to-Larry Fuss pass accounted for the Cadets' other marker, also in the final period.

GMA	Yardstick	CASTLE HEIGHTS
206	Yards Rushing	13
169	Yards Passing	—5
8	First Downs	4
20	Penalties	5

Nine minutes elapsed before the red and white offense bombarded the visitors with the first Cook-to-Corley pass that was to become prevalent as the evening wore on. Charles Corley, the Cadet watchfob-sized right half of former Sylvan fame, grabbed a Cook toss in the initial GMA drive and lugged it 32 yards to set up the first touchdown. A few plays later Cook threw to John Barrow for the score and Corley kicked the first of five PAT's

Later in the first quarter Cook caught Corley in the end zone for another scoring toss after a pass to Emory Fears had set the atmosphere on a 37-yard play. Cook-to-Ted Stamm was responsible for the third Cadet score and this play, 72 yards, was the longest of the night. After Corley converted, time fizzled out at the half with GMA out front, 21-0.

Both teams battled for naught in the third period, but Castle Heights never threatened at any time in the game, being held to minus yardage in the second half.

Midway in the final period the Cadets cranked up again with Hale in command and drove 46 yards on short runs and passes to Herbert Britt and Fuss, with the latter receiving a Hale pass in the end zone for the score.

Cook added the final touches to his own show in the final minutes.

Marietta Shut Out Sylvan, 12-0

Special to The Constitution

MARIETTA, Oct. 31—Marietta's Blue Devils piled up a 12-point lead in the first quarter and that was the story as Sylvan's Golden Bears went down, 12-0.

Marietta marched 68 yards in 13 plays from the opening kickoff. Jimmy Fitts went over from the nine for the first touchdown. Alvin Davis, hefty guard, broke through to block Fitts' point-after attempt.

The Bears could not move after Marietta kicked to them following the TD. When Gene Cunningham went back to punt, he caught a low snap from center and could not get it off. Marietta took over at the Sylvan 21. The Bears were penalized five for off-side on the first play after the futile punt. Then James Roukoski nailed Don Cole with a pass that carried 16 yards to the second touchdown. Again the pile-driving Davis broke through to block Fitts' conversion try.

Sylvan rolled up 11 second-half first downs to zero for Marietta and the Bears pushed to the 10, 31 and nine-yard lines of Marietta Twice fumbles killed off drives and Marietta held for downs on the sweep to the nine just before the game ended.

Clarkston, Avondale Tie In Evenly Matched Game

By BERT SPENCER

Take one football game, slice down the half-time line, give each half to the two combatants with regard to spirit, drive and breaks and you have the story of the 13-13 tie that preserved the one-loss records of Avondale and Clarkston.

Clarkston's Angoras scored on their initial drive in the first quarter, and tallied again the first play of the second period. The Blue Devils from Avondale scored in their initial drives in the third and last frames.

AVONDALE (13)	Yardstick	CLARKSTON (13)
6	First Downs	9
141	Yards Rushing	210
32	Yards Passing	65
35	Yards Penalized	25

Each team had backfield harmony worthy of any barber shop. Clarkston's quarterback Billy Armistead gave the ball for most yardage to driving halfback Punk Williams, but kept it himself or handed off to little half Bryan Maddox or Carl Chelena for good yardage.

Avondale's A, Bs and C paced their offensive efforts. Quarterback Jimmy Ackerman, with a 66-yard keep gallop; halfback Jim Barlow and fullback Ronald Bradley and speedy little half Johnny Chandler played the full game for the Blue Devils.

The Blue Devil defensive, paced by center Coy Short and guard Larry Owens, showed its strength by stopping Clarkston drives on the Avondale 5, 7 and 3 yard lines, the last stand enhanced by the final horn.

But Clarkston's ball-hawkers nabbed two Blue Devil fumbles and two misdirected aerials to stop Avondale drives before they materialized.

A fumble recovery by Angora Sammy Fortson set up the first Clarkston score at the Avondale 22, with Williams plunging over from the one. Williams scored again at the beginning of the second quarter when he took a toss-out from Armistead, at the Clarkston 40, fought through tacklers at the Avondale 45 and shook more defenders from his back as he raced down the right side to paydirt.

Northside Wins, 6-0, Over Wolves

By RAY BLACK

Lester Simerville led Northside to a 6-0 victory over Southwest Wolves Friday night on the North Fulton field, in a battle of two lightweight lines. The fleet-footed Tiger halfback scored the only touchdown of the game midway the second half on a 12-yard off-tackle jaunt, which climaxed a 74-yard drive.

Simerville's offensive efforts were 140 yards gained in 14 tries, a 10-yard average, and he was on the receiving end of two of his team's four passes. He was stopped for no gain only once during the game.

Northside threw all of its offensive into one touchdown drive and another threat and that early in the third quarter on a 58-yard drive which was checked on the five-yard line due to a fumble.

Southwest did not offer a single scoring threat and only in the second quarter did it put two successive first downs together, but the alert line played one of its best games in holding the Tigers to a single score. Ten penalities didn't help Southwest's cause either.

Northside's line also played a jam-up game, turning back every Southwest offensive without serious threats, intercepting two passes and recovering several fumbles.

Late in the game Southwest attempted a desperation passing game, but David Black Jr., intercepted a pass one play before the game ended on Southwest's 32-yard line.

Spalding Tumbles Rome; Tempers Flare

By JIMMY WALKER

GRIFFIN, Oct. 31—Charlie Carlyle and Roger Bass brewed up a cauldron of boiling trouble for Rome's Hilltoppers this Halloween night and the Wolfpack witchcraft wrought Spalding a 21-14 treat over Dick McPhee's valiant party.

Tempers flared at the last minute when a misunderstanding arose between Rome coach McPhee and the officials. Rome had battled to the Spalding 3-yard line and, with 15 seconds left, Donald Traylor was beaten back on a try over right guard. The clock ran out with Rome guard Jimmy Shuggart unconscious on the field, and the Hilltoppers trying to get a time out.

McPhee said he might protest the game but wanted to confer with the officials first.

Rome struck for a score in the second quarter on a swift 63-yard drive. Traylor snagged three screen passes from Bill Griffin for 12, 16 and 11 yards, followed it up with a three-yard burst to score. Gene Cranford kicked the point.

Carlyle wasn't fenced in for long. On a 55-yard campaign, Charlie blasted holes through the Rome line seven plays in a row, 48 yards, and a touchdown, then leaped over the middle for the point.

Seven seconds from the half-time whistle, Spalding's Billy Peeples pulled a weird one from the pot. On a reverse at the Rome 41, he hoisted a long, wobbly pass that end Larry Stansell took at the 15, almost lost at the five, but lugged into the promised land. Carlyle wound around end for the point.

Both forces matched a touchdown in the third period. Roger Bass covered 56 yards on a keeper play for the Wolfpack tally. Griffin struck Traylor with another screen pass for a 29-yard Rome payoff play.

Billy Whatley, Lamar Cleghorn and Stansell worked the night's most brutal tackles, while Rome's Cranford and tackles Gene Freeman and Bobby Johnson muddled the Wolfpack production.

bolt zipped 63 yards on 15 tries, Purcell 50 on 12, both averaging 4.2 yards per effort.

Juhan's punting was a tremendous factor. He toed one 65 yards late in the third quarter, Purcell downing it at the Grady eight, a deep hole out of which the Knights never managed to crawl. He strong-legged another 46 yards to the Grady 30 midway the fourth go-round. Richard LeBlanc got away one 42-yard beauty to the Murphy 41 for Grady late in the third stanza also.

Although it was no night for gambling, Murphy once tried to make a yard on fourth down on the 44 in the third quarter. The effort failed, but the Knights were unable to take advantage of it when they took over.

The Knights lone show of offensive might came in the second quarter when, with Jeff Davis, Myles Spurlock, Sam Hagerman and Sidney Reese powering through the line, they smashed from their own 16 to the Murphy 14

Conyers Tops Mountaineers By 26 to 20

By ALTON MAXWELL

CONYERS, Oct. 31—Fullback Billy Ray plunged over from one yard out to break a 20-19 Mountaineer lead, and for the remaining seven minutes the Bulldogs held off Stone Mountain threats to give Conyers a happy homecoming 26-20 triumph.

Booming Buddy Hay, 165 pounds of fullback dynamite, scored all of Stone Mountain's points. He plunged from one foot and two feet out, then stunned the huge turnout on Legion Field with a 95-yard kickoff return in the fourth quarter. Hay ran for the first two extra points.

Don Turner reeled off a 50-yard touchdown run to put Conyers ahead early in the contest. Snap Kiser snappily came to the cause, taking the snap for scoring plunges of one and two yards.

The Mountaineers were hammering away on Conyers' 30 when the game ended.

Rossville Upends Decatur by 27-21

Vann Flings Three TD Passes As Powell Stars in Vain Cause

By MARION GAINES
Constitution Sports Writer

ROSSVILLE, Oct. 31—Rossville's Bulldogs treated Decatur to a 27-21 Halloween surprise party Friday night as Toppy Vann tossed three touchdown passes to assure Glenn Wade's upstate eleven of a tie for the Region 4-AA crown.

Right half Bud Powell was the clutch man for Frank Jones' losers, scoring two six-pointers, one a brilliant 75-yard gallop in the third quarter.

End Dale Westbrook gathered in three and 22-yard scoring aerials from Vann and sophomore halfback Fred Thurston latched onto an eight-yard TD toss in addition to sprinting 45 yards for Rossville's fourth-period tally that iced the game.

Decatur staged a desperation drive that ended on the Rossville 16 with 1:19 left.

Vann ran the clock out with four ground plays.

Tackle Roy Steiner recovered Bob Campbell's fumble on the Decatur 20 to set up Rossville's additional tally. Moving behind excellent blocking by tackle Jim Ritchey, guard Buddy Strickland and center Ray Thompson, the Dade Countian drove to the seven and Vann hit Thurston with the scoring toss.

Stan Thornton gave Decatur a 6-6 tie in the second quarter, with a determined 18-yard burst off tackle, and Bob Shimp's extra point put them ahead 7-6.

Moments later Strickland pounced on a Decatur fumble at the visitors' nine. Then Vann hit Westbrook with a scoring pad for a 13-7 halftime lead.

Thornton, Billy Bob Redford, Powell, and Jerry Strum ate up yardage in the second half, totalling 293 yards rushing for the whole game.

Tackles Sonny Tatum and Charlie McDowell and guard Dan Logue fired Decatur's line as the Jones men drove for two TD's in the final half. The fired-up Rossville eleven matched them TD for TD, however.

College Park Romps Past DeKalb, 31-0

Rams Rack Up Big Lead Early, Continue Unbeaten Way

By MATT GEORGE

It was all trick for College Park Friday night, and no treat for Southwest DeKalb, as the Rams continued on their unbeaten path by trouncing the Panthers, 31-0, in Panthersville.

The Rams had possession of the ball six times in the first half and scored four touchdowns.

Held scoreless in the first half by Monroe last week for the only time this season, the Rams started fireworks early. Southwest DeKalb fumbled on the first running play of the game at its own 21. Ward Lawton took the ball over from the one after he, Charlie Holt and a penalty set it up there.

The second touchdown came in two plays. Emmett Allen returned a punt 20 yards to the Panther 45. Then Lawton rambled around end for 45 yards and the score.

A pass interception on the Southwest 35 by Charlie Hendrex, who ran it back all the way, made it three touchdowns in the first quarter.

The Rams scored only once in the second quarter after that brisk start. From the Ram 35, Lawton and Holt carried for a first down at the 45. Allen went for 12 to the Panther 47. Then Lawton took a pitch-out from Red Hope and went all the way.

This time an Allen-Harold Jordan pass gave College Park its first and only extra point of the game.

Southwest DeKalb tightened its defense in the second half with Jimmy Payne and Wayne Jones standing out.

The only Ram score came on the fourth play after the second half kickoff. Jones and Lawton combined to advance the ball to the College Park 49. Emmett Allen's pass was true to Charlie Brown for 25 yards, and Brown romped the distance for the final score.

Bratton TKOs Joe Miceli

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—With blood streaming from his left eye, Johnny Bratton overpowered GI Joe Miceli in a sizzling welterweight brawl Friday night to score a technical knockout in 18 seconds of the eighth round at Madison Square Garden. Bratton weighed 143, Miceli 146.

Turing the full steam of his fiery attack on the bewildered Micell, who was floored for eight in the first round and seven in the seventh, Bratton forced referee Harry Kessler to intervene in the eighth as he rained punishment on the 23-year-old New Yorker, home on an Army furlough.

After 30 Years He Still Thinks The Rule's Wrong

LONDON, Oct. 31—(AP)—In 1933 a reader wrote The London Times to complain "against the preposterous rule which allows two services to the server in tennis."

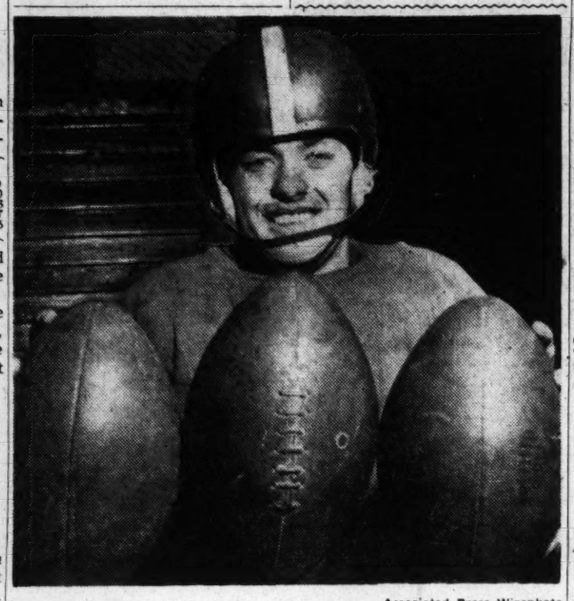

That letter was sign "Saxagenarian."

The writer must be one of the most patient and determined persons in Britain.

In 1943 he wrote another letter making the same protest.

He identified himself as "Septuagenarian."

There has been a world war in the interval and a troubled peace but this week he was back again voicing the same complaint and signing himself "Octogenarian."

Dalton Whips Russell, 20-0; Wilkins Stars

Special to The Constitution

DALTON, Oct. 31—Roy Wilkins, 195-pound Dalton fullback, and guard Herman Hall teamed up to give the Catamounts a 20-0 victory over the Wildcats from Russell.

Wilkins' first score came early in the first quarter after he set up his own score with a 40-yard run. He tallied from the six. Again in the first period Wilkins scampered off tackle for 85 yards and the second score.

The final score occurred in the second period when Guard Herman Hall intercepted a Wildcat pass and ran 35 yards for a touchdown.

Russell threatened twice in the gabe when they neared the Dalton 10-yard line in both the first and third periods.

Hall was acclaimed player of the night by radio announcers and sportswriters.

Score by quarters:

Milton Squeezes On Past Tucker, 13-12

By HENRY HAYES

TUCKER, Oct. 31—Undefeated and untied Milton added Tucker to its string of victims Friday night, 13-12, in a tense, high-pitched battle that threatened several times to turn into a fisticuff bout.

The relentless drives of fullback Marvin Jenkins into the center of the Tucker line, plus well-timed aerials by Charles Burnett, were the telling weapons that punched two touchdowns across in the first and last quarters. Jenkins himself carried for 63 yards and scored the winning extra point after the second TD.

The first Milton score came on a 60-yard drive, during which Burnett threw twice to James Ellis for short gains. These jump passes were employed throughout the evening and were successful in keeping the Tucker secondary off balance.

The first Tiger score came in the third quarter, when end Charles Lanford blocked a punt on the Milton 40, picked it up on the run, and was never neared as he outdistanced his pursuers. The try for the PAT was unsuccessful.

Milton roared back in the fourth quarter, using the vaunted end-around play by Ellis which has done so much damage during the season. The threat was stopped at the Tucker 12-yard line, when Burnett threw two incomplete jump passes.

However, two plays later, Moose Morris fumbled the ball, and Gerald Jenkins, right tackle, recovered it on the nine. Tries by Bobby Holcomb and Ellis lost three yards each, so Burnett lobbed one to Ellis, alone in the end zone. This time Jenkins smashed through.

The Tucker offensive reeled off a sustained 72-yard drive, with David Stanford and Mackey Waters leading the drive. The try for the typing extra point was wide and low, and rest of the time was used up on line plunges by Milton.

Druid Hills Thunders Over Newton County

By BILL HIBBERT

Special to The Constitution

COVINGTON, Oct. 31—With part of their backfield on the injured list, quarterback Bob Friedland and a converted end, halfback Hearst oRane, led the Druid Hills Red Devils to a 21-12 victory over Newton County High here Friday night.

This offensive pair and a charging defensive line broke open the scoring for the Devils in the first quarter. Roane made a first down, moving from the Devils 24 to the 41. One play later, Friedland went through right tackle, sidestepped two defenders, and outraced the Ram safetyman for a 54-yard touchdown run.

After the Devil defensive team had held the Rams for three plays, Donnie Plonk dashed through the line and blocked a Newton punt. End Bennie Cox scooped up the ball at the Ram 29 and went the distance for the score.

In the second quarter, the Rams fought back and scored two touchdowns. After an exchange of fumbles, John Prince went down the right sideline for a 25-yard touchdown jaunt. Later the Rams drove 69 yards with Jack Daniel scoring from the two.

The second half settled into a defensive battle, but the Red Devils added a clinching touchdown.

The 600 die-hards were kept from returning to their cells by fanatical convicts armed with knives.

The back of the "bad food" mutiny among 2,000 penitentiary inmates was broken by increasing pressure from 250 armed peace officers amidst the glowing ruins of eight prison buildings.

wielders just as he boarded a plane in Cleveland to fly to the riot scene. The state highway patrol told the governor.

While the convicts flashed their knives, prison officials sought for an unidentified guard held hostage inside one of two cellblocks. They did not know if he was safe.

Many of the major buildings of the century-old prison burned to their last two-by-four while 1,200 of what started out as a crowd of 2,000 convicts huddled around small bon-fires in the prison courtyard.

Three convicts were shot.

One state highway patrolman, R. W. Lawrence, mistaken for an escaping convict, was wounded in the head.

The state adjutant general called out 500-600 Ohio National Guardsmen.

A prison spokesman said damage would go as high as one million dollars.

Five buildings, including the Catholic chapel, were destroyed by convict - set fires. Three others were damaged badly.

Even this high price was lower by far than the last time Ohio Penitentiary convicts set fire to the prison. That was in 1930 when convict-set fires—part of an escape plot—caused the deaths of 332 prisoners.

That was on Easter Monday and the thoughts of that holocaust spurred action by city and state tonight.

Prison officials could not learn immediately the identity of the captured guard, or whether he was unharmed, but they said he was being held in either cellblock G or H, near the southwest corner of the prison.

By 8 p.m., the flames of nearly a dozen fires inside the walls began dying. The flames no longer licked high above the 30-foot gray stone walls but sent only a glow against the sky.

Four hundred of the 1,200 convicts who set the fires returned to cellblocks A and B. Prison spokesmen said these men apparently were the more nearly faint-hearted among the excited and case-hardened rioters.

ter this cell with state police armed with guns immediately. I am calling on you to immediately release the guards unharmed and return to your cells. We will use any force necessary to restore order."

Seyfrit also read the names of 38 convicts described as ringleaders who he said would be looked to to see "that this order is carried out." He added a warning that "you better bring those guards down here . . . they better be unharmed."

State police fired three shots at the roof of the cellblock and brought up an acetylene torch for possible use in cutting open the door, which the prisoners had locked.

But the torch wasn't needed.

Within 10 minutes after Seyfrit started talking the first two hostages appeared and the prisoners began waving white cloths.

One by one the haggard guards came out and went to tearful reunions with their wives and families in the warden's office.

At 10:38 a. m. the state police and guard force moved in, followed by Seyfrit and then Stevenson, Dixon and other officials.

At 10:42 the cellblock was reported "secured."

Dixon said there was no "disorder" as the guards moved up and down the cells locking in the prisoners.

TIRED, DIRTY, DEJECTED

The prisoners, who had not been fed since Monday night, appeared a tired, dirty and dejected lot.

As soon as their cells were cleaned up the prisoners were given a meal of fried ham, green beans, corn, jelly, bread and coffee.

Asked if there would be any negotiations with the prisoners, Seyfrit said "Not by a damned sight."

He said there would be an investigation "from top to bottom, that's all."

Earlier officials had tried unsuccessfully to negotiate with the convicts for the release of the hostages while also hoping that hunger would drive them to submission.

But, among other demands, the prisoners asked the ouster of the State Parole Board and Warden Jerome Munie and Dixon said officials could not accede.

"SHOULD BE PRESENT"

Dixon, who interrupted his own campaign for the governorship to come here, said he decided yesterday to "go in" and a plan was drawn up.

He said he relayed his decision to Stevenson at Pittsburgh, and that the governor approved but "felt that he should be present when such an occurrence took place."

The presidential nominee then chartered a plane and flew last night to Scott Air Force Base at Belleville, Ill., going by automobile the rest of the way to the prison.

Convicts Stage Hunger Strike In Oregon Jail

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 31 (AP)—Sixteen convicts in the state prison segregation unit here went on a hunger strike last night and Deputy Warden Lawrence O'Brien said today "it looks as though we will have to starve them out."

O'Brien said the unit—a group of cells within one of the prison buildings—was under close guard and no serious trouble was expected. The men are out in a corridor and O'Brien said they'd have to go back into their cells before any food would be given them.

Three of the men in segregation are under death sentence.

The trouble started, O'Brien said, because macaroni and cheese substituted for potatoes twice yesterday.

He said the 16 refused to eat dinner last night and breakfast today.

Six of the 16 failed in an escape try last week.

Baby's Birth Hailed By Mainz on Rhine

MAINZ, Germany, Oct. 31—(AP)—The birth of a baby caused flags to fly in this Rhine River city today. The lord mayor visited the city hospital with flowers and wine to congratulate the infant's parents.

Reason: The birth brought the city's population up to 100,000 for the first time since its severe World War II bombings.

once opposed bombing north of the Yalu River dividing North Korea and Manchuria, but since then has indicated that he favors such a policy. Likewise, he criticized the general's recommendation that more South Korean troops be trained in order that American fighting men eventually can be pulled out of the front lines.

"He knew it has been our policy" to train as many South Koreans as possible since the beginning of the Korean fighting, the Democratic nominee said.

Eisenhower's statement that "Asian should fight Asians" if war is inevitable in Asia is "resurgent isolationism," Stevenson said and has put the general in the position of having "recklessly gambled" with the fate of U. S. allies in Europe."

TURNS WESTWARD

Stevenson, after his Brooklyn speech, turned his campaign westward and toward his Springfield home where he will receive the voting results Tuesday night.

Eisenhower, he said, is "indulging in something far more insidious than easy solutions. He propounded the astounding theory that the war (in Korea) could be won by South Korean troops."

Stevenson declared that any "retreat" in Korea "could mean only the loss of the entire East to China." And then he asked if Eisenhower "would neither abandon the war nor enlarge it?"

Stevenson warned that the United States can not forcibly repatriate the 50,000 North Korean prisoners who face only death if forced to return to North Korea.

"If we sent those men to their death at the point of our bayonet" all of the Far East would lose faith in the United States, he said. "Is this the question the general would settle by going to Korea?" he asked. If so, the Eisenhower position would be "identical" to the policy of the Russians, he added.

"OUR MORAL POSITION"

The issue of repatriation, he said, is the "one remaining issue" in the Korean truce talks. "The general should answer one question," he said: "Has he embraced the position" of some Republicans that would mean giving up "our moral position?"

Stevenson warned that any such course would destroy confidence in America throughout Asia and be contrary to America's "moral" principles. He admitted there is a "stalemate" in Korea, but said "A stalemate is better than an atomic war."

Rather than raise "false hopes" about an early settlement in Korea, Stevenson said, "I would gladly lose the presidential election."

Earlier, Stevenson told a television audience that the Republican party would lead America "closer than ever to war."

Mayor Gives OK to Works Amendment of Plan of Improvement legislation, that it gives future legislative delegations powers which now reside in the electorate and that it further divides responsibility for county government.

FURTHER STUDY

Hartsfield urged the legislative members to make a "further investigation (of the amendment) and get in touch with our city attorney." He enclosed a copy of a written opinion prepared by City Atty. Jack Savage which said "While some element of doubt is necessarily involved, we do not believe passage . . . would prevent the county from participating in the completion of the express highway, for which bonds have been voted."

Hartsfield said any needed corrections to the amendment could be made next year under provisions of constitutional amendment No. 10.

"As you know, this amendment (No. 40) is highly important and validates a great many Plan of Improvement bills," the mayor wrote, "including the act authorizing the Fulton County Board of Health to enforce its regulations in state courts, as well as our rights to perform police services in the county."

Hailey issued the following statement:

"I urge the people of Georgia to vote against Amendment No. 40. I am deeply surprised and disappointed in the reception given the signed statement by the members of the delegation and the chairman of the Fulton County delegation that called attention to the fact that Amendment No. 40 was drawn in error and if passed cannot be corrected by the Legislature in January.

EXPRESSWAY

"If passed it could jeopardize the completion of the Expressway because it says no money can be spent in incorporated areas for public improvements. All the remainder of the Expressway is inside Atlanta.

"If it passes, it is entirely possible someone could enjoin the county from its tax levy in 1953 which would be a disaster.

"I signed the letter as chairman of the commission, but it originated with the delegation.

"If they let it pass, it can't be because I didn't put the public on notice and do my best to warn them about it.

REFUSES TO SIGN

"Mayor Hartsfield refused to sign, saying he wanted to study it. If His Honor, the Mayor, wants to study it until Tuesday, he doesn't care what happens to the Expressway."

Commissioner R. L. Doyal said: "The delegation got tangled in its own web. I hope the people will vote against it. Maybe now we will get an amendment that will take care of the Plan of Improvement and be fair to all the county and not just for Atlanta.

"We can't grow in Fulton County unless the amendment is defeated and a new one passed. If 40 passes, the future growth will be in DeKalb and Clayton Counties where they have forward-looking government."

dealing with the Communist menace in the United States.

"There has been considerable concern—and rightfully so," he said, "about methods to be used in rooting communism out of our government. There are those who believe that any means are justified by the end of rooting out communism. There are those who believe that the preservation of democracy and the preservation of the soul of freedom in this country can and must be accomplished with decency and fairness and due process of law."

Then, without referring to McCarthy, the Republican nominee added:

"I belong to this second school. But at the same time, I say to you that no differences in theory can excuse any failure to see that Communist contamination inside our government is stamped out."

Earlier, Eisenhower pledged to a Negro group that he will work around the clock to achieve "first-class American citizenship" for all Americans.

CIVIL RIGHTS

He vowed he will not follow the "easy course" taken by Democrats on the fiery civil rights issue. He said the Democrats have been promising a lot of things and then doing nothing.

Eisenhower then drove to a memorial commemorating Negroes of this city who died in World War I. President Truman visited the memorial Wednesday.

Making a last-minute bid for the vital 27 electoral votes of the home state of Stevenson, the GOP presidential nominee accused the Democrats of trying to conceal the real issues of the campaign from the electorate.

"Because the true issues of this campaign are so clear, they are terrifying to the opposition," he said.

PRIMARY ISSUES

The primary issues as Eisenhower saw them were "Korea, communism, corruption and prosperity based on peace."

He said the Democrats were wrong in trying to make an issue of isolationism, which he said was now "dead" as a political issue.

Eisenhower reviewed the campaign issues at the end of a long afternoon of stumping in the Chicago area, starting shortly after he landed from a New York flight with an off-the-cuff speech to workers of the Western Electric Co., plant at Cicero.

Eisenhower told the audience of 25,000 that the tungsten ore affair involving Lawrence Westbrook demonstrates "one of the biggest tragedies" of the Democratic Party's record in office.

He said it is evidence the Democrats have not purged themselves of corruption.

TWITS DEMOCRATS

The former general then visited veterans in Hines and Vaughn veterans' hospitals.

He started out his stadium speech by twitting the Democrats—"important members of the administration party"—for trying to get him to run on their ticket in 1948.

Saying that the public might find it hard to understand the "furious assaults of my Siamese-twin opponents"—meaning President Truman and Stevenson — Eisenhower commented, "in these past four years I could not possibly have changed so completely as to give real cause for their shift from ardent coaxing to violent condemnation."

"Why did I do it? I faced more time than I could ever make anyway so I decided I might as well have some fun."

Captured with Hill at Yulee, 20 miles north of here, was James Douglas, one of the convicts the self-styled "maniac" freed yesterday at Bartow, some 200 miles to the south.

The other three, including Hubert Lee Gann, an old Florida prison pal of Hill's, were rounded up last night and early today in the phosphate flats around Bartow.

Hill apparently had been trying to recruit a new gang when he freed the foursome to replace the two youths captured over the week end after they parted company.

Supt. L. F. Chapman of the Florida State Prison remembered that Hill "apparently was just one of those adventurous kids who has to lead."

Sheriff Hagan Parrish of Polk County, where Hill freed the convicts, took the prisoner back to Bartow later today on warrants charging kidnaping and armed robbery. But the FBI was expected to take over, taking him later to Jacksonville for arraignment on interstate kidnaping and car theft charges.

Airman 1/C Robert H. Tarrh of MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., who, with his girl, Marilyn Cummings, was a hostage of Hill and Douglas at the capture, said the bandits "scared us but they did not mistreat us."

Truman Hits Ike Reply

ticket with a speech in Cincinnati Music Hall.

Mr. Truman invaded the home state of Republican Sen. Robert Taft on the next to final day of a week's swing through the Midwest to end his stumping for Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate.

The President lambasted Eisenhower for using a personal letter from Gen. James A. Van Fleet in an effort to show that the administration is against training more South Koreans.

"This is not so," Mr. Truman said, repeating the defense department's statement that a recommendation of Gen. Mark Clark for further expansion of the South Korean army has been approved.

Mr. Truman said that Eisenhower has been "twisting and squirming in an effort to get out of his share of the responsibility" for the 1947 recommendation by the Joint Chiefs of Staff that American troops be pulled out of Korea. Eisenhower then was Army chief of staff.

"He said first that his opinion was a purely theoretical one, having to do with the strategic value of Korea in case of a general war," Mr. Truman said.

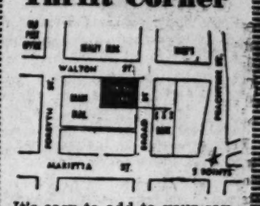

"Well, that isn't true. The opinion in which he joined—also gave good and urgent reasons for getting the troops out right away.

"Then he said that his opinion was a purely military one, but that the decision was a political one, and that he should not be blamed. That is pure gobbledegook. Everyone knows that the grave decisions in the cold war are mixed military and political ones."

The President ridiculed the entire Republican campaign as a high pressure, "soap selling drive."

"They even provided a soap opera—which is one of the tried and true ways to sell soap," Mr. Truman said. "They had the traditional cast—a young veteran, his wife, children, tears, pathos—even a little dog."

"all who oppose the amendment are Communist-front organizations." The Jaycees reiterated their own opposition to the amendment "because it will reduce the rights and prerogatives of each citizen of Georgia to vote for a candidate of his own choosing."

Elliott said the Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is opposed to the amendment, is, itself, operated on a "club unit plan." He said no local club gets more than 10 votes in the state convention. Thus, Atlanta with 350 members and Griffin with 50 members each have 10 votes. This prevents Atlanta Jaycees from running the state organization, said Elliott, a former state president.

The amendment opposition continued to hammer away on charges of dictatorship.

Fortson warned Georgians the amendment, with laws already passed, will put too much power in the hands of a small group of men.

The former judge said the county unit system will remain in force in the primary when Amendment No. 1 is defeated—and the state law of 1917 will continue to require any party holding a primary to hold it on the county unit basis.

Talmadge said the amendment would make primaries mandatory instead of letting executive committees hand-pick candidates.

"Because I am taking the power away from the executive committee, composed of my friends, and giving it to the people, the opponents say this is dictatorship. They know that is a lie. How can I create a dictatorship by making you choose your own candidates?"

Talmadge said Constitution Editor Ralph McGill endorsed the Neil Primary Law in an article "written before Jim Cox bought The Constitution and changed the paper's policy."

Rural newspaper editors from two two-unit counties went on WAGA-TV Friday night to fight the amendment. They were Vincent Jones of Jackson and Roy McGinty of Calhoun. Rep. John Greer of two-unit Lanier County, who moderated, said they were two of the more than 100 country editors opposing Amendment No. 1.

Jones urged Georgians to keep their general election free as a "check on the methods used by the winner in the primary."

McGinty hit at racial prejudicial appeals of the Amendment proponents and declared: "If all the white and colored people of all the six-unit counties were to vote in a bloc, the rest of the state could still out-vote them three-to-one."

The State Democratic Executive Committee circulated copies of an editorial written by John Stoddard of Washington endorsing the amendment. Stoddard was adjutant general during the Rivers administration and later served in the South Pacific in World War II.

GOPs Deny Funds Pour Into State

U. S. Agent Reports Law Violations

By GENE BRITTON

Republican officials Friday denied charges that campaign funds are being poured into Georgia and the South from National GOP sources and that tthe state organization is intentionally making illegal solicitations of federal employees here for campaign contributions.

O. E. Myers, regional Civil Service Commission director, said he has sent a report to Washington that both Republican and Democratic organizations in Georgia have asked contributions of government employees in violation of the Hatch Act.

Myers said about half a dozen workers reported to him that they had received requests for contributions. He said he understood job threats were hinted in some cases.

HATCH ACT

The Hatch Act forbids the solicitation of campaign money from government workers in federal buildings. Workers may be approached, however, outside government buildings.

Spokesmen for both parties denied any intentional solicitation of government workers.

Myers said his report has been received by the Civil Service Commission in Washington and has been turned over to the Justice Department for investigation. The Atlanta office of the FBI said the matter has not yet been referred to the local agency.

Charges that the GOP is pouring money into the South from "the outside" were made by Constitution Editor Ralph McGill in his front page column Friday morning, and drew denials from at least two Georgia Republican leaders.

NO LACK OF FUNDS

McGill said that "the Republican Party is pouring money into the South in unprecedented amounts. Even modest local headquarters have no lack of funds, buttons, literature and organizational workers." He also asserted that the South has progressed faster than the rest of the nation industrially under Democratic administration.

Gen. A. F. Glancy, former General Motors executive, now resident in Atlanta, said in a telegram to McGill:

"Not a penny of outside Republican money has come into Georgia. On the contrary, Georgia people not only raised enough money for state needs but an additional 50 per cent was sent out of the state to national headquarters."

TAX BARRIER CITED

Glancy also denied that businesses have come South because of the Democratic administration. "The Democratic tax structure has just made it harder to raise venture capital and almost impossible for the small businessman. The truth is that businesses have come South in spite of the Democratic administration."

Georgia Republican Finance Chairman Bobby Jones said all GOP campaign funds used in Georgia were raised locally. He said that as far as he knows "not a nickel" has been sent in from outside sources.

Democratic sources, meanwhile, insist money is being sent in, especially in an effort to persuade Southern Negroes to vote Republican. They point to the many speakers who have visited the South and to work among farm populations.

Fact is, Taffy finds Whacky good company until he gets tired of Whacky's pecking at his whiskers. Stores Here Open Later Election Day

Schools Closed, Polls in Many

Atlanta schools will have a holiday Tuesday and many Atlanta stores will open late Tuesday morning to give employees an opportunity to vote, it was announced Friday.

Davison's, Rich's, Regenstein's, J. P. Allen's and others will delay their Tuesday opening from 9:30 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. Franklin Simon's will open at 10 a. m. instead of 9:30 a. m.

Some florist shops will close at noon to permit their employees to vote and also to attend a florist convention.

SCHOOLS USED

Many other stores and business firms are arranging to permit their employees to go to the polls between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., on a staggered basis to avoid a last minute congestion at the booths.

Half of the schools are used as voting precincts, Supt. Ira Jarrell said in announcing the closing of 117 schools here for Tuesday. A new law makes the school closing mandatory here. School teachers and school employees will report to work and be dismissed at the discretion of the principals.

Atlantans will be called to the ballot boxes Tuesday in a "Fourth of July" fashion. Industrial whistles and fire engine sirens will sound off at 7 a. m. to notify citizens that the voting booths are open.

GET-OUT-THE-VOTE

Boy Scouts are placing "liberty bells" on doors over the city in a "Get-Out-The-Vote" campaign, Girl Scouts will pin lapel tags on citizens after they vote Tuesday, the tags stating: "I Have Voted-Have You?"

Car pools and baby sitting service will be provided for those needing these services, the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce said.

An exchange student from Holland is heading a group of College Park High School students who will volunteer for baby-sitting duties on election day. Marike Van Gliessen calls her group the "Baby Sitters' Brigade."

Beauty Brings Business, Goodwin Tells Downtown Merchant Group

Suggesting the slogan "Beauty Brings Business," George Goodwin, executive director of the Central Atlanta Improvement Association, Friday proposed that a drive to brighten store fronts in downtown Atlanta be readied for next spring.

"It is not too early to start a "spring cleaning for downtown Atlanta," the weekly newsletter to members pointed out. "Competition of bright new shopping districts will increase steadily. Downtown must fight for its share. By next spring the last of the steam locomotives will be gone. Major streets have been resurfaced, many buildings will have been cleaned and many store fronts modernized.

"There are still too many unattractive spots. How about a campaign—perhaps in co-operation with the Women's Chamber of Commerce—for a real spring cleaning in 1953?"

Farm Land Need Is Cited By Chapman

A major problem confronting officials of the Federal Government is how to produce sufficient food in the years ahead for America's rapidly increasing population, Dr. Paul W. Chapman, associate dean of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture, said here Friday night at the National Land Clearance Forum, meeting at the Henry Grady Hotel.

Dr. Chapman told more than 50 representatives of business and agriculture, that the answer is more land. "We will need a minimum of 50,000,000 more agricultural acres," he said, "and I believe that the South can furnish all the nation needs through putting more acres in cultivation."

Earlier Friday, J. T. (Tom) Callaway, Chicago soil conservationist, told the group there will be "a fifth plate on every table by 1975 and present agriculture is inadequate to fill that plate." He said thousands of acres every year are lost to industrial expansion.

$5 Million Special Funds Sought by 8 Departments

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Extraordinary budgetary requests sought by city departments will exceed $5,000,000 for 1953 on the basis of preliminary demands already filed by eight major divisions.

Although city administration leaders have warned that finances probably will not justify large outlays, requests filed by the eight departments already exceed $3,000,000 with the water and parks and several smaller departments still missing.

CUTS FEARED

Assistant Comptroller Earl Landers Friday gave the requests a cursory inspection and said unless the city ends the year in considerable better fiscal condition than is now anticipated the pruning knife probably will be applied to keep outlays within anticipated receipts for the new year.

Extraordinary requests by the eight major divisions already filed include:

Constructor — $966,000 total, including a $368,000 resurfacing program, $194,000 for equipment for the streets and sewer divisions, rebuilding of five bridges in outlying areas, and 57 additional employees.

Fire — $851,560 total, including two new fire stations in newly annexed areas costing $328,560, $312,000 in other improvements, $128,000 for new equipment including three new pumpers and a $40,000 crash truck for the Municipal Airport, 56 additional firemen and other personnel, and $4,400 to equip the new station at Northside Dr. and Conway Rd.

Traffic—$383,000 total including $250,000 for new traffic signals, $70,000 for improvements, $35,000 for new equipment which includes automatic traffic counters, $27,000 for a new shop.

Sanitary — $241,975, including $219,000 for 20 new trucks, five sweepers, a tractor shovel, and $22,975 for crematory equipment.

STREET LIGHT

Electrical — $182,500, including $125,000 for additional street lights and $57,500 for new whiteway lights.

Airport—$60,000 to repair concrete aprons fronting the administration building.

Auditorium — $366,000 including $350,000 for airconditioning, and $16,000 for new equipment for the stage and other needs.

Police—$70,000 for 35 additional automobiles and 11 motorcycles.

Homer Townsend, garage superintendent, said conditions are extremely crowded even now at the garage and said an additional 12,000 square fee' of work space is needed at a cost of $75,000.

The water department will file requests for well over $1,000,000 work of equipment and improvements for 1953 including $1,000,000 for the second year's work on a five-year program to extend needed water mains to newly incorporated areas.

Construction Rises

Value of construction authorized in Atlanta for the first 10 months of 1952 was $33,615,475, a figure $185,036 more than that for the corresponding figure of 1951, records in the office of Building Inspector William R. Wofford show.

For the 1952 period a total of 9,114 permits were issued compared to 6,462 permits for the same 10 months of 1951.

A tal of 965 permits for construction valued at $3,384,465 were issued for October, 1952, as against 624 permits for work valued at $1,756,910 for October, 1951.

Amendment 2 Endorsed by Business Unit

Constitutional Amendment No. 2, which would allocate all gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees to the State Highway Department, has been endorsed by the Stewart Avenue and Hapeville Businessmen's Association.

L. A. Wilson, president of the association, said adoption of the amendment would "enable a progressive development program for Georgia which would benefit the state's business and agriculture."

Wilson added that "the great need for a modern highway system for Georgia makes it imperative that the people vote for No. 2."

Meanwhile, Clark Gaihes, head of the Georgia Department of Commerce, announced his support of the amendment, declaring it would mean better roads and possibly the tripling of tourist dollars for Georgia.

John N. Holder of Jefferson, termed by amendment supporters as the "father of Georgia's highway department," also joined in urging ratification of the amendment.

The Atlanta used car dealers also voted Friday to support the proposal. The Georgia Motel Association, headed by O. E. Rylander, also joined in supporting the amendment.

Lon Duckworth

Ike Can't Cut His Bonds --Duckworth

Lon Duckworth, former state chairman of the Democratic Party, told Northside Kiwanians Friday that General Eisenhower has "surrendered himself to men our government can't afford to be led by," and declared the Republican Party offers no constructive program to the nation except to go back to the "old system" of bankruptcy and depression.

"Yes, we need a change in Washington," Duckworth said, "and we don't like some of Truman's ideas, but I'd rather have them than some of the GOP policies that brought us ashes in the 1930s."

Duckworth said there has been corruption in Washington, but said the Republicans can ill afford to attack the Democratic record in the light of Teapot Dome and other scandals of the Harding administration.

ADLAI FREER

He declared Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, is an independent candidate who can best effect a change in Washington, and described him as a man of character, ability and experience and "the most intellectual and courageous candidate since Woodrow Wilson."

Addressing the civic club at the Biltmore Hotel, Duckworth lauded the foreign policy and economic gains of the Democratic administrations, declaring that "if it hadn't been for the foreign policy of the administration during the last few years, we would be isolationist and helpless today."

Republicans in Congress, he said, "fought every effort to create a bi-partisan foreign policy" and opposed every move made to strengthen the Free World.

Duckworth said Eisenhower is a great general of character and integrity, but described him as having surrendered, through lack of experience, to the Taft-McCarthy wing of the GOP to such an extent that "he can't ever be free again."

ANSWERS IKE

He rapped Eisenhower's criticism of what the general called Democratic "fumbling" in foreign affairs, declaring that the general was Army chief of staff when foreign policies were shaped and "no chief of staff ever served in Washington without having a hand in foreign policy."

If Eisenhower has a "magic wand" to end the Korean war and cut taxes, "he should say so," Duckworth asserted. "He should give us the formula and not double-talk."

Stevenson, he said, has given Americans "plain talk."

Duckworth urged the Kiwanians to vote Democratic to keep Southern senators and congressmen in positions of power and said the South can hope for better treatment from the Democratic Party than from "the party that always has been against us."

Christian Duty to Vote, Atlanta Ministers Say

By ANNE GOWEN

What is the Christian's duty at the ballot box?

Atlanta ministers are facing this question in their pulpits and studies as the day draws near for an election which one minister, Dr. John A. Garber, pastor of Clifton Presbyterian Church, said is "fraught with far-reaching effects both in our national life and in the life of other nations."

"It has been said that the church should stay away from politics, but that is not my view because politics, rightly regarded, is the science of good government. Christian people ought to be concerned with good government," Dr. Garber added.

In his Sunday night sermon, Dr. Garber will urge his congregation to vote because, he said, "one way we can co-operate in the selection of competent and trustworthy leaders and officers as Christian citizens is through thoughtful exercise of our right of franchise."

Dr. O. M. Seigler, pastor of Cascade Baptist Church, commented, "A preacher ought to interpret the Bible in its relationship to all of life and let that carry its own message."

"Let him preach the gospel of righteousness and citizenship so that those who hear him will be inspired to righteous living and righteous voting," Dr. Seigler said.

The Rev. W. G. Carter, pastor of West End Christian Church, said ministers should not try to tell the individual how to vote, but they should strive to interpret Christian principles so these principles will be followed in the voting booths.

"We get a lot of competition from other sources," he added.

The Rev. Candler Budd, pastor of Glenn Memorial Methodist Church, said the primary responsibility of the church is "to exalt Jesus Christ as the only pattern we should accept."

"We are dealing with eternal principles and should try to create within men the spirit of mercy and truth. These are applicable to politics," he said.

An early morning revival service, an innovation which met with success earlier this year, will be held next week at Cascade Baptist Church.

The services will be scheduled at 7:30 a. m. to permit business people and students to attend before going to jobs or classes, Dr. O. M. Seigler, pastor, said.

Dr. A. B. Hawkes, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Waycross and vice-president of the Georgia Baptist Convention executive board, will preach at the early morning services and at 7:30 p. m. Monday through Saturday. The Rev. Jesse Bell, Cascade's educational director, will lead singing.

Plan New Church

A new Methodist Church will be organized at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at Hooper Alexander School on Memorial Drive in DeKalb County.

Dr. Edward G. Mackay, superintendant of the Decatur-Oxford district, will be present at the meeting.

At two preliminary meetings 34 persons pledged to move their memberships to the proposed church.

Investiture Service

The annual investiture church service at Agnes Scott College will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday in Presser Hall. Dr. Vernon Broyles, executive secretary of the board of church extension, Presbyterian Church, U. S., will deliver the sermon.

First Services

The new Clarkston Presbyterian Church will hold its first services at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Clarkston Woman's Club house. Dr. F. C. Talmage, secretary of the home missions board, will preach.

Church Briefs

The Rev. Wyland Huffman, Emory theological student, has been named youth assistant at the First Church of the Nazarene. . . . In connection with a national "Back to God" movement in the American Legion, legionnaires from the fifth district will attend a special service at the Baptist Tabernacle at 7:30 p. m. Sunday . . . Question boxes will be placed at the exits of Haygood Memorial Methodist Church Sunday so congregation members may drop questions for the pastor, the Rev. Harvey C. Holland, to consider during a series of sermons on the background, purpose and message of the Old Testament . . . "New Members Night" will be observed at North Decatur Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, when 105 persons who have joined the church since July 1, 1951, will be special guests . . . The Rev. Peter Manning, pastor, will take the role of prosecuting attorney at 7:30 p. m. Sunday when Park Street Methodist Church gives a dramatic presentation of "The Trial of Jesus Christ."

Soviet Books Saturate Israel, India

Tome Propaganda Drive Related Here

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

The Russians are doing "a superb job" of saturating book markets abroad, particularly in Israel and India, with "printed-in-English, published-in-Russia" books, Theodore Waller, director of the American Book Publishers' Council, said here Friday night.

In Atlanta to address the Southeastern Library Association, Waller said the Russian government has so heavily subsidized publishers that they can sell well-made books for a few cents in strategic areas of the world, gaining "hundreds of millions of dollars in propaganda."

Waller urged the librarians to join publishers in backing an expansion of the U. S. State department's 160 libraries overseas and to sponsor an "intelligent use of books in the Point Four program in India."

The speaker specified that he did not mean that boxes of unneeded books should be sent to India but that an effort should be made to understand the needs of the agricultural and technical workers on the program and supply them with specific books for the jobs they are doing.

Waller, whose wife, Helen Waller, heads the New York Herald Tribune forum and recently received an award from the people of Carroll County for community service, also urged the librarians to support the Library Service bill, which failed to pass the last Congress by one vote.

The bill provides for the expenditure of $7,500,000 within five years on a library demonstration project which would take books to the areas of America where there are no library facilities.

"One third of the people in the United States are without access to public library service," Waller said.

The publishers' representative came out strongly against censorship of "writing, publishing, buying, lending or selling" books and cited several cases where librarians had been fired or publicly attacked because of volumes they circulated.

"The free publication and use of books is the inner citadel of a free press," Waller declared.

Waller was the final speaker at the Friday night session of the library conference at the Biltmore hotel. The meeting will end Saturday at noon.

Mrs. J. Henley Crosland, librarian at Georgia Tech, was elected president of the association to succeed Louis Shores, dean of the library school at Florida State University.

HALLOWEEN CELEBRANTS TURN PEACHTREE STREET INTO CARNIVAL OF FUN AND FROLIC

Lively Scenes of Gaiety and Make-Believe Were Caught by the Camera Friday Night During the Traditional "Spook" Holiday

5 Bishops Attend Funeral Of Walthour at St. Philip's

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Five bishops and all the clergy of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta were among several hundred persons who attended funeral services for the Rt. Rev. John Buckman Walthour, bishop of the dioceses, at the Cathedral of St. Philip Friday.

Flowers banked the sanctuary of the church, where the 47-year-old bishop was consecrated last January—and where he served as dean for four years prior to his elevation to the episcopate.

The procession of robed clergy included Bishop Charles Carpenter of Alabama, Bishop Edwin Penic of North Carolina, Bishop George Henry of Western North Carolina, Bishop Girault Jones of Louisiana and Bishop Randolph Claiborne, suffragan bishop of North Carolina.

TRADITIONAL

Services for Bishop Walthour, who died of a heart attack Wednesday night in Cedartown, were in keeping with Episcopal tradition.

The bishop's silver crook was carried in front of the casket. A large white floral cross was on the casket's blanket of red carnations.

"A mighty fortress is our God, A bulwark, never failing . . ."

Dean Alfred Hardman of the Cathedral of St. Philip, the bishop's successor as dean, read from the Episcopal service:

"'I am the resurrection and the life,' saith the Lord; 'he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.'. . ."

A soloist sang:

"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want . . ."

The congregation joined in reading the 121st Psalm:

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills; from whence cometh my help. My help cometh even from the Lord who made heaven and earth . . ."

SCRIPTURE READING

The Rev. Colin Campbell, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Columbus, who helped officiate at the bishop's consecration, read from the eighth chapter of Romans:

". . . If God be for us, who can be against us?"

The Rev. Mr. Campbell also read from the 14th chapter of St. John:

"Jesus said 'Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so, I would have told you, . . ."

The choir sang the anthem, "Souls of Righteous," and the congregation joined in reciting the Apostle's Creed.

Dean Hardman offered a prayer:

"Remember Thy departed servant John, O Lord, according to the favor which Thou bearest unto Thy people and grant that, increasing in knowlerge and love of Thee, he may go from strength to strength, in the life of perfect service, in Thy heavenly kingdom . . ."

The Recessional was "Hark, Hark, My Soul."

Burial will be at West Point Military Academy, where Bishop Walthour was chaplain for six years before coming to St. Philip in 1947 as dean.

Wife Indicted In Shooting of Policeman

Mrs. Marie Cawthon, 49, was indicted Friday by the Fulton County grand jury on charge of assault with intent to murder her East Point policeman-husband, W. Bailey Cawthon, on Sept. 5.

Police quoted Mrs. Cawthon as saying after the midnight shooting:

"I meant to kill him . . . I'm sorry I didn't."

Cawthon was struck once in the knee and once in the back by slugs from a .38 caliber revolver as he rolled on the floor of the couple's bedroom at 921 Ben Hill Rd., East Point, officers reported they were told.

Mrs. Cawthon is free under $7,500 bond.

The grand jury also returned a no true bill, freeing Leonard M. Mullinax, of Alpharetta, who was accused in the Oct. 25 pistol death his son-in-law Benjamin Martin, 37, Route 1, Alpharetta.

Donald Frank Wallace, no address listed, was indicted on charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the Lee St. automobile crash death of Larry S. Allbright on Aug. 23. Allbright was a passenger in Wallace's car which struck a tree.

Red Pattern Set For Czech Courts

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 31—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist - controlled National Assembly yesterday approved a government plan for reorganizing the Czechoslovak courts on the Soviet model, the Prague radio announced.

The broadcast said a new Supreme Court will be set up as the sole court of appeal for all judicial matters, including military cases.

District courts henceforth will be called "People's Courts" and will include an "Office for Youth Protection" which will function as a Court of Guardianship.

Grand Jury Urges Study Of Policing Outlying Areas

By DERICK DANIELS

The Fulton Grand Jury Friday stepped squarely into the drawn-out controversy over policing outlying areas of the county and, in effect, gave its backing to factions favoring patrol duty by Atlanta police.

In its term-end presentments, the jury recommended "an impartial survey by a recognized authority" to determine the needs of unincorporated sections.

While the presentment acknowledged that there is a dispute over adequacy of protection afforded by the Atlanta police on a yearly contractual basis, it made no mention of a plan originated in county commission sessions that would turn over patroling to the sheriff's office.

$131,000 YEARLY

That idea, backed principally by Commissioner R. L. (Shorty) Doyal, would require abrogation of the present $131,000 yearly agreement that sends 24 city officers and six policewomen into non-city areas on a full-time basis.

From the jurors came the recommendation that after an impartial survey is completed "suitable . . . agreements (should) be negotiated between (Atlanta) and the county."

The jury also urged that the county drop the lion's share of its present plans to remodel the old Fulton Courthouse "in the light of current building costs . . . and the need to reduce taxes."

First stage of the estimated $2,000,000 project, the installation of high-speed elevators and enclosed stairways won the jury's approval, however. But the investigating body recommended that when that portion is completed "all other remodeling should be postponed."

4 YEARLY ALLOTMENTS

The renovation had been recommended by a joint committee from the Atlanta Bar Association, Superior and Civil Court judges. The expense was to be borne in four yearly allotments from county tax money.

Turning back to law enforcement, the grand jury said:

"We feel that sanitary conditions on the fourth floor of the city jail should be improved. There are no facilities for washing dishes.

"On the same floor there are a number of metal beds and . . . a number of (drunk) prisoners are put into this area . . . and on occasion stumble, fall and bruise themselves on these beds.

"It is recommended that this area be changed . . . into individual cells with one bed (each)."

The jury repeated its special presentment of Sept. 22 that urged the Atlanta Bar Association and Lawyers Club to investigate a Municipal Court-Criminal Court controversy over jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases arising from traffic violations.

The special presentment had recomended "special attention to the suggestion that the (traffic case) functions of these courts be combined."

In speaking out on the case of the county's three road scrapers that were missing for five years, the jury gave special praise to county accountant John Still "who has brought up to date the list of Fulton equipment."

The investigation of the scrapers was called by county commission after Fulton Atty. Harold Sheats reported the machines had been turned over to an equipment company for resale in 1947. Five years thereafter, there was no report of their whereabouts, Sheats said.

$2,225 CREDIT

Since the investigation started, an agreement has been reached where the company will allow the county $2,225 in credit for the scrapers.

"This grand jury does not condone the practice followed by the equipment dealer of accepting the equipment for sale and then making no settlement until forced to do so in the face of copies of bills of sales or records of contracts," the presentment said.

"We do feel, however, that it is the duty of our county employees to be in possession of facts regarding the whereabouts of property assigned for their use, which was not the case at the time of this transaction and contributed to undesirable conditions."

It was urged that the Fulton delegation to the Legislature press for passage of a law requiring both Atlanta and Fulton County to advertise their intentio nto sell property.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

The September-October grand jury also recommended:

1. More teachers for the Georgia Training School for Girls. There now is one for 115 girls, the jury said. Also suggested was construction of a gymnasium.

2. An assistant manager for the Atlanta Municipal Airport. There should be a maintenance man on duty 24 hours a day, the jury said, in order to deal with emergency problems. The jurors cited the Aug. 30 incident when an Eastern Air Lines plane taxied off the runway and nosed over after landing lights along the strip had gone out.

3. Nothing be permitted to delay expansion of Atlanta and Fulton schools.

4. Although "complete co-operation has not yet been achieved" in the transfer of country parks to Atlanta, there should elapse another year of Plan of Improvement trial before adjustments are made.

5. Extreme caution in future granting of licenses and renewals to dealers in alcoholic beverages. The jury urged closer surveillance be kept on such establishments.

6. The police department explore possibility of establishing precincts in selected areas in order to provide "prompt" protection. Citing a case where a diabetic was arrested and not given an opportunity for treatment until he was in serious condition, the jurors asked that Atlanta police department make a special point of instructing officers in handling cases requiring medical attention.

7. An habitual criminal law providing life imprisonment after the third felony conviction.

8. Court judges be given sole authority to fix sentence of convicted criminals since "he has access to past records of these criminals which are not available to juries."

9. Large-scale buying of groceries and better sanitary conditions at the state welfare department's home for Confederate veterans' widows.

ACCIDENT ROUNDUP

Goblins Not To Blame For 7 Halloween Mishaps

Everyday mishaps—and not misadventure at the hands of goblins—accounted for accident victims who reported for treatment at Grady Hospital's emergency clinic Friday.

Ronald Eugene Long, 211 East Cambridge Ave., fell into a trash fire and received burns about the chest and arms, hospital attendants said. 2-year-old Wayne Allen Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Skinner, Lithonia, was treated for first and second degree burns about the chest and neck after coming into contact with a hot stove.

Two-year-old Carol Waymon Silvers Jr., Rt. 2, Marietta, fell from a moving car at Johnson Ferry and Roswell Rds., receving bruises about the face and head. Louis M. Tarratoot, 18, of 404 Boulevard, N. E., print shop employee, was slightly injured in an auto accident at Piedmont Ave. and Harris St., N. E.

Arthur Eugene Carpenter, 6, of 610 Pecan St., College Park, told physicians he attempted to chop a stick and struck his left hand with an ax.

Bridegroom 2 Weeks Indicted in Burglaries

Herman Atkins, 252 Wellington St., S. W., ushered his pretty bride to a night spot for the wedding festivities about two weeks ago. But police crashed the party, took Herman off to jail.

And Friday the grand jury indicted the 22-year-old bridegroom, charging him with having committed 20 summertime burglaries. Police said his $250 wedding gift to the bride was part of the loot.

FUN, CLASSICS

Scott's Wit, Music Win Atlantans

By PAUL JONES

Henry L. Scott, who has achieved prominence in other parts of the country by mixing comedy and the classics, exposed an Atlanta audience to this sort of wit and music Friday night and the home-town folks seemed to like it.

While it took the better part of Scott's program for us to warm up to his broad keyboard humor, the audience seemed to fall right into line at the beginning and, at the conclusion of the concert—we'd rather call it a show—the audience was convulsed in applause and we were grinning rather widely, too.

Scott is a combination of Victor Borge and Alec Templeton. While he does not possess the musical background of the latter, he is able to put over some of the Templeton type of humor which gave his program a sparkle.

Imitations of Borge were evident in several sections of the program, especially the "Chopin in the Citrus Belt" number, in which he played a Chopin selection with a grapefruit and an orange in each hand.

Some of his funniest skits were done in pantomime, away from the keyboard. His impression of a subway passenger and a woman taking a bath in cold water were hilarious. A piano skit, in which he impersonated a pianist during three stages of his career—child, teen-ager and old man—was equally delightful.

Scott's serious offerings were played with less eloquence than one would expect from a concert artist. His interpretation of Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" was only a reasonable facsimile of the original score.

. He will play again at matinee and night performances Saturday for a good cause—The Atlanta Girls' Club.

Woodall Hits Amendment 2

John Woodall, president of the Georgia School Boards Association, declared Friday night adoption of Constitutional Amendment No. 2, would be a "step backward" for Georgia.

Speaking over WSB-TV, the Woodland industrialist attacked as unsound the principle of allocating tax revenues to any specific department of state government, and noted that Georgia abandoned that principle in 1945 when the state constitution was revised.

The amendment would earmark all gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees for the State Highway department.

GHOST ROBBERS STRIKE

Halloween Vandalism Light, But Din Terrific

By PAUL BURTON

Thousands of ghosts, witches, tiny goblins and just plain people haunted downtown Atlanta streets Friday night in the annual Halloween celebration.

Ghouls, however, were at a minimum.

Only one false fire alarm was turned in, and there were no reports of serious vandalism, police said.

There were, however, some complaints. A bunch of "ghosts" reportedly jumped out of a growth of hedges near the Plaza, robbed a man and disappeared.

LIGHT TAMPERING

There were several cases of lights being lowered from their positions on Peachtree St. lamp posts, and several reports dealing with moved furniture and flat tires.

Also, more than an average number of drunken driver cases was recorded during the night.

The outstanding characteristic and chief complaint of the city-wide carnival was the noise.

The downtown celebration centered around Peachtree and Ellis Sts., wheer two persons dressed as Frankenstein and Satan led several extemporaneous parades.

HORNS, CONFETTI

Accompanying the parades were blasts of horns, storms of multi-colored confetti, pillowed lassies, and screams of little tots, some merry, some afraid.

Traffic was detoured from Peachtree St., except for buses and taxicabs. Forty-five policemen and 35 traffic officers were assigned to the downtown area to take care of the detour spots and to keep order on the streets.

Outside the downtown area, where hundreds of small herds of ghosts were playing the traditional "trick or treat," plainclothesmen were assigned to keep down vandalism.

This is a reverse of the usual Halloween procedure, as uniformed policemen usually are assigned to the outside areas, while detectives work downtown, police officials pointed out.

Meanwhile, in other areas, dozens of elementary schools were having Halloween carnivals of their own, and various clubs were holding dances and dinners.

The warning issued by the Fire department and the Better Business Bureau concerning a type of highly inflammable mask must have been effective, as there were no reports of these masks causing injuries.

All in all, the annual observance, although loud, was harmless and gay.

Leap Injures Woman; Arson Suspect Held

A Negro woman was seriously injured Friday and a 17-year-old Negro was jailed for investigation as result of an early morning fire that damaged a 16-unit apartment house at 191 Forrest Ave., N. E., police said.

Trapped i na third-floor apartment by the flames, Lola Mae Sheppard, 29, leaped from a window, Patrolmen A. E. McKinnon and J. M. Mulliford said the Sheppard woman was recovering from a broken leg.

She was admitted to Grady Hospital with fractures of both legs and her left arm and a possible fracture of the right arm, patrolmen said.

Paul Fleming, 17, in front of whose apartment the fire was said to have originated, was booked at City Jail on suspicion of arson. Fire Inspector R. L. Parker said fleming was observed attempting to borrow matches immediately before the fire broke out.

The frame building was considerably damaged by fire and water.

Pocahontas ChurchPlea Is Success

By YOLANDE GWIN

A year ago Friday, an English rector was in Atlanta pleading for funds for the restoration of a church in Gravesend, England, where the body of Pocahontas, the most famous of all Indian girls, lies buried.

Friday of this year, this news came in a letter to Croom Partridge of this city from the rector: Mission accomplished. Thank God and you.

"It was rather ironical that the news would arrive exactly a year to the date that Atlantans heard the Rev. R. D. Dauntон-Fear make his plea," said Mr. Partridge, who is honorary president of the English Speaking Union, "Last year members of the Union gathered at the High Museum of Art to meet him and hear his talk. He was in the United States on tour seeking funds for the restoration of the famous old St. George's Church."

HISTORIC NATURE

"The church is historic in its own right, Pocahontas is buried there and the fact that the church was in danger of being abandoned prompted Sir Evelyn Wrench, a noted Britisher, to promote a project to raise funds for its restoration. From the news received the results of the rector's swing around the United States was successful."

The church will be reopened on Nov. 1, All Saints day, and its Chapel of Unity will be for all Christian denominations.

According to Mr. Partridge, the letter from the Rev. Dr. Fear, who is rector and rural dean of Gravesend, England, the service to take place on Saturday will be in charge of the Bishop of Rochester, Dr. W. E. Sangster and Viscountess Astor.

VIRGINIA BORN

The latter, Virginia-born Nancy Langhorne, has been a leader in the British Islands since her marriage to the late Lord Astor. Pocahontas, whose memory will be honored, and whose grave at the church will be hallowed, was also from Virginia, the daughter of Powhatan, a chief of the state. The Indian girl was baptized Rebecca and married John Rolfe.

Last year when the Rev. Dr. Fear came to Atlanta, he was accompanied by his wife and their secretary, Miss Joan Apperley, and the trio was presented to a large group of Atlantians by Mr. Partridge, then president of the English Speaking Union, at a meeting and informal reception at the High Museum of Art.

TECH SIGMA CHIS are planning a big week end next Friday when traditionally the boys vacate the house to make room for their dates. Three candidates for sweetheart of Sigma Chi inspect one of the "guest rooms." "A slide-rule, perhaps," says Anne Cardwell as Robie Strickland unpacks and Patsy Green tries a "T" sweater for size. Festivities will include a ball Friday at the Peachtree Gardens with breakfast following at East Paces Ferry Tower, the Army game Saturday and a hayride that night. Others up for the sweetheart throne are Harriet Allen, Emmie Hay and Mary Frances Stubbs. Miss Allen is a Kappa Delta at the University of Georgia, Miss Green a Pi Pi at the Westminster School, Miss Hay attends Agnes Scott, Miss Stubbs and Miss Cardwell are Kappa Kappa Gammas at Georgia, and Miss Strickland is a Pi Pi at North Fulton. There will be many visitors in town next week including those of the fraternity alumni, in both civilian and military circles, who will be in the grandstands when Tech meets the Army.

PTA Study Scheduled Next Week

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 31—A workshop for Parent-Teacher Association leaders in 52 Northeast Georgia counties will be held at the University of Georgia Nov. 5-6.

Concentrating on leadership development, the workshop will train teams of workers from local PTA chapters to take over leadership of their chapter's programs in child growth and family living.

About 100 Parent-Teacher workers are expected to attend the midweek session. Mrs. Blanche Hobbs, Chula, state president of PTA, is chairman of the meeting.

Local chairmen are Dr. Irwin V. Sperry, professor of family development at the University, and Miss Floride Moore, associate professor of home economics education.

Consultants who will act as advisory experts at the meeting are Dr. Florence Young, professor of psychology; Dr. Elizabeth Sherrer, associate professor of home economics; Martha McAlpine, family life specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service, and Reba Burnham, assistant professor of education.

Student Panel To Address Club Meet

A panel of high school and college students will speak to the East Atlanta Woman's Club at 8 p. m. Monday at the clubhouse on Portland Ave.

Discussing "Youth Faces the Future" will be Joe Greene, Ann Johnson and Billy Johnson of Roosevelt High; Stuart Langley and Louis Hutchinson of Murphy High, and Jake Kelley of the University of Georgia.

Mrs. George Gaston and Mrs. J. G. Street Sr. are planning the program. The public is invited.

Smith, Denney Vows Said

Miss Gwen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome N. Smith, became the bride of Willis W. Denney, on Thursday night at 8 p. m. at the Lakewood Baptist Church.

The Rev. W. H. Cruse officiated and the usher-groomsmen were Charles Brown, Tommy Watkins and Leon Harkins.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gail Smith, sister of the bride, and Miss Kitty Chestnut, Miss Joann Reinhold, and Mrs. Tommy Watkins. The groom's brother, Tyre Denney was the best man.

The bride wore a model of Chantilly lace posed over satin and fashioned with a scooped-out neckline and a bustle. A fingertip illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap.

The couple will reside at 983 Sloan Cir.

TEEN-TYPES

Class Fashion Revues Are Planned for Teens

By DOTTY LUNDY

Home ec classes around Atlanta high schools this week will have a real treat in store when Miss Ada May Marshall, representative of a national pattern company, stages fashion revues right in class. Future Homemaker Week is the occasion.

At Grady High Wednesday a gala show is planned, featuring numbers for any occasion—from boating to balls. And, best of all, any teen can whip up these fashions, be she a wizard with the needle or no.

Pat Ellison, who is president of the Atlanta-Fulton County Council of FHA will model a trim pair of denims—red pedal pushers topped by a gray pullover. Sally Hancock, member of the OK's civic club at Grady, will wear stripes, not the ball and chain variety, but in a taffeta date dress.

Lynette Kaplan, associate editor of the new Orator, will wear a one-piece frock of wool jersey, fine for after-game festivities. Gwen Burns will be attired in a felt circular skirt, just right for that Friday night "swish-your-partner" routine. Joyce Fort, who happens to be the new secretary of Pixies club, will model another skirt 'n' shirt combination—royal blue felt topped by cotton stripes.

Betty Jo Lott, president of her FHA chapter, will have the blonde look in a long coat of all-wool fleece. A French tam and velvet ascot will complement her attire. The Flapper returns with Margaret Orr's costume. The new president of Bubbles Club will model a two-piece cardigan wool suit in fireman red—complete with knitted turtle neck dicky and cloche helmet—a silhouette any Charleston Cutie would have envied back in the Twenties.

Leaving the fashion whirl, North Fulton thinks it has a mascot to rival Mr. Dooley at Emory and the Georgia Bulldog. The famous character is a sophisticated insect who inhabits the spire at North Fulton and pecks away a column ever so often for the Scribbler.

And speaking of the North Fulton newspaper, the Scribbler has had a face-lifting this year. For the first time it has come out in a six-page edition. Also the Confidential, an extra each month, snoops around for all the gossip.

Only two more months left in leap year, girls, so here's your chance. The annual staff at Sylvan Hills is sponsoring a Sadie Hawkins dance in the school cafeteria Saturday night. The time's from 8 to 12. All the Dogpatch folks will be there, and for only a slight fee, Marryin' Sam will tie the knot.

The Juniors at Sylvan have elected new officers. President will be Henry Teague; Louis Gomez is new vice-president; Eleanor Wilson, secretary and Howard Stone, treasurer.

At Roswell the Beta Club recently held initiation at the Greenway Community House. Novices are Lonnie Barron, Betty Neal Reeves, John Foster, Jack Pittman, Jane Donehoo, Betty Sue Hansard, Sarah Donehoo, Joan Jameson, Doris Kliene, Betty Ann Thomas, Anne Thomas, Joyce Coleman, and Jimmy Booker.

At Avondale the new Student Christian Association has made plans to become a co-ed Hi-Y, sponsored by the YMCA. The chapter hopes to be installed by the Druid Hills group in December. Faculty adviser is Miss Beulah Wills.

Bound to Happen

I wonder why, when you're all alone,
Nobody rings your telephone,
Nobody writes you a single note,
And loneliness is a lump in your throat.
No one comes to the door to call
And you think you haven't a friend at all.
But just let you climb into the tub,
Intending to have a leisurely scrub,
Then everyone wants you by doorbell or phone,
And you wish to heaven they'd let you alone!

Atlantans Cast Vote Before Cuban Trip

Four votes have already been cast for presidential candidates although there are three days until election day. Mr. and Mrs. Muggsy Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Glancy are on their way to Havana, Cuba, today and prior to their departure Thursday night they cast absentee ballots.

The Atlantans planned their departure from Miami to coincide with the arrival there of another native, J. L. deGive, who left by plane Friday. The group will visit Cuba with a mission—that of presenting miniature gold baseballs to the Havalanta teams which visited here in the summer. The Atlantans will also take along some of the other awards which the Cuban visitors captured from their Atlanta competitors, during the series of events staged here in the late summer under the sponsorship of the Northside Kiwanis Club.

During their stay in the Cuban capital, the visitors will be at the Hotel Nactional and will be entertained at a round of parties. The visitors will also be on the hosts side for one of the features planned by them is the showing of more than 1,600 moving pictures of the games.

HEAD FOR HOLIDAYS

in these sparkling dress-up hats designed by Sally Victor. At left is a pink chiffon, pearl embroidered portrait bonnet. Pale pink roses cover the right side of the hat and touch the cheek. At left is a white satin pillbox encrusted with pearls and brilliants. Hats will be available in Atlanta soon. These are advance fashions.

Miss Miller, T. A. Stone Are Married

Miss Dorothy Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bee Miller of College Park, became the bride of Thomas A. Stone Jr., son of Mrs. T. A. Stone Sr., of East Point at a ceremony Saturday at the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. C. L. Middlebrooks of College Park Methodist Church officiated.

Mrs. Irene Allgood was her sister's only attendant.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a pale blue suit with navy accessories and white angora hat. She carried a white prayer book topped with white orchids.

W. B. Sellers of Loganville, Ga., served as best man.

A reception was held after the ceremony. After a brief wedding trip the couple will reside in Atlanta.

Miss Miller attended College Park High School.

Mr. Stone is a graduate of Russell High School. He attended the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia for two years and is now associated with the American Tobacco Co.

Tea Planned In Famed Hall Built in 1902

ATHENS, Oct. 31—The 50th birthday of a historic hall on the University of Georgia Coordinate Campus will be celebrated with a tea here on Sunday afternoon.

Named for the "first daughter of the Confederacy," Winnie Davis, daughter of Jefferson Davis, the Memorial Hall was built in 1902.

Students' parents, faculty members, sorority and fraternity groups invited to celebrate the anniversary will be greeted by students who live in the hall, dressed in ante-bellum costumes. House Director Mrs. Charles Downs and Athens UDC members will help officiate.

In 1953 the Navy will take over the entire Coordinate Campus including Winnie Davis Hall.

Home Secretary Designed for Modern Living

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(INS)—If your home is also your "business center," one of the nation's big mail order companies has a new piece of furniture designed with you in mind.

It's a "home secretary," a four-purpose cabinet that looks like any furniture cabinet or storage piece you'd put in your home. Inside, however, this item has a file with folders, a safe, a typewriter storage compartment, and desk space.

The top of the cabinet flaps down to provide writing space. Inside the open top is a file cabinet with 25 indexed hanging folders.

Kitchen Mesh Can Now Be Attractive

Did you ever look around your kitchen with a sly gleam of satisfaction? The curtains all starched, dishes glistening, floor scrubbed? But look over there by the drainboard. Isn't that a mussy bit of mesh that doesn't fit into your sparkling interior.

What is it? It's that unsightly, but necessary gremlin that takes a last struggle with your pots and pans before all the sticky food lets loose.

Well, you don't have to put up with corroded steel mesh to clean your kitchen equipment. One manufacturer markets a little jiffy scrubber that won't scratch your china, doesn't stain the drainboard and smells sweet as a posy after weeks of use.

The secret is that a trickle of water after using cleans the plastic coils.

BUSINESS ROUNDUP

Tax Relief Urged by SDPA Chief

By ALEX JOINER

Since it began operating late in 1951 the Small Defense Plants Administration has negotiated 282 contracts that will funnel $143,000,000 into small businesses. Administrator John E. Horne said here Friday.

Horne, who addressed local businessmen at the Atlanta Public Library earlier in the day, said in an interview that despite the progress that has been made small companies are getting only about 60 per cent of the contracts the Air Force has estimated are suited to small enterprise. The same situation is true with Army and Navy procurement, he added.

He said the agency will continue to devote 60 per cent of its effort and a like amount of its budget—$3,750,000 this fiscal year—to getting contracts for small manfacturers.

In his talk the Washington administrator said he feels some tax relief could be given small business firms without any appreciable reduction in total tax revenues. Lessening the tax burden, especially on small, new businesses, would enable them to grow faster into big operations paying more taxes.

$30 MILLION FOR GEORGIA

Since Lockheed reactivated the government airplane plant in Marietta it has let contracts totaling more than $30,000,000 to Georgia industry and businesses, General Manager D. J. Haughton told the Thomasville Kiwanis Club Friday. Approximately 1,000 Georgia firms have contracts with Lockheed at present, he added, and, with a continuing aircraft program, subcontracts will increase.

CPA TO MEET MONDAY

The monthly meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants, will meet at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 6:30 p. m. Monday. Speaker will be Charles E. Sigety of the committee on federal taxation of the American Institute of Accountants. His subject will be "Program of Institute's Committee on Federal Taxation."

FILM GROUPS TO MERGE

Charles D. Beeland Co. and King Film Productions, Inc., Friday announced they will consolidate on Nov. 1 to become Beeland-King Film Productions. The company, located at 752 Spring St., N. W., will produce a wide range of motion pictures — animation, television subject, educational, public relations and training films.

SEITZ RE-ELECTED

President Joseph Seitz of Colonial Stores, Inc., in Atlanta was re-elected a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Food Chains which closed its five-day annual meeting in Miami Beach Friday.

U.S. Can't Buy Friends, Davis Tells Lions Club

The United States has been "proceeding too much on the theory that money will buy us friends abroad," Rep. James Davis of the Fifth Congressional District said here Friday.

Addressing the Atlanta Lions Club, Rep. Davis said federal spending and grants to foreign countries must be reduced.

"Our ability to pay taxes is not unlimited," he declared. "We must finance our military program on a pay-as-you-go basis."

Atlanta Produce

On the Atlanta fruit and vegetable market there was fair to moderate trading during Thursday with only light activity Friday morning, according to the Production and Marketing Administration. Receipts were moderate. Oranges continued to weaken; best iceberg lettuce was firm; potatoes, apples and cabbage showed no change.

Turnips and greens moved rather slowly and prices were unchanged to slightly lower. Georgia turnips brought 75c-1.50 dozen bunches, mostly 1.00-1.25; collards were also 75-1.50, mostly 1.00-1.25; mustard greens mostly 1.00; collard sprouts few, 1.00-1.25 and turnip greens 75-1.25 per bushel in job lots. Few Georgia butterbeans brought mostly 3.50-3.75 per bushel; Georgia and Florida round green beans were 3.50-4.50, best mostly around 4.50 and poles were 4.00-5.50 good stock mostly 5.50 per hamper.

Yellow crookneck squash mostly from Florida was 6.50 few fair, 4.50, and some held high as 8.00. Georgia cucumbers were 2.75-3.00 and stock from Florida and South Carolina, 3.00-3.50, few fair quality lower; Florida eggplant sold 2.75-3.00 bushel and Virginia bell peppers large were 2.75-3.00, few 3.25 per basket. Okra was too scarce to quote. Field peas averaged higher as Georgia and Florida stock brought mostly 1.75, few high as 2.00. Cabbage was steady as North Carolina round type small ranged 2.25-2.50 and white stock mostly 1.50-1.75. Sweet potatoes were in lighter supply as fair to good Georgia Porto Ricans jobbed 3.00-3.75 and some very best higher, poorer and small were mostly 1.75-2.25 per bushel. Florida grapefruit and apples from Georgia, Virginia and North Carolina held steady. Florida boxed oranges were 4.50-4.75, mostly 4.50 and some small at 4.25.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—Trading in cotton goods was dull Friday. First and second-hand sellers revealed that bulk of the business was in small lots and mostly for fill-in needs. Prices for almost all goods remained unchanged.

Trading in woolen goods remained quiet, although dealers heard reports that large government orders for woolens were pending. Dealers also reported a slight increase in demand for worsted goods. Reports that heavy inventories of wool goods have been sharply reduced brought forth optimism in the market over future business.

Naval Stores

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 31—(AP)—Turpentine and rosin, no market and no quotations. Receipts, turpentine 149, rosin none. Shipments, turpentine 59, rosin none. Stocks, turpentine 1,765, rosin 9,636.

GOP Chance Linked to Stock Rally

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—The strongest price rise in almost two months lifted the stock market today out of its stalemated condition, and immediately brought the comment from analysts that the action forecast a Republican victory on Tuesday. Followers of the Democratic party claimed it was a staged show. Nevertheless, the climb was impressive adding from 1 to 3 points to quotations and returning the list to the best rate since mid-October.

The sharp recovery assumed added importance because of the types of issues to take the lead. These included representative units in the steels, rails, automotives, oils and chemicals, with Chrysler the spearhead among the pivotals both in volume and price appreciation.

ONLY 191 DECLINE

The composite rate in terms of The New York Times index rallied 2.54 points, and the reversal of trend was accompanied by the heaviest turnover since mid-April as transactions on the stock exchange enlarged to 1,760,000 shares, against 1,090,000 shares on Thursday. With gains well distributed throughout the list, interest broadened to include 1,175 individual stocks. At the finish only 194 were lower, 765 higher and 216 remained unchanged.

It was an easy escape for any market follower to put the smart rally down to the anticipation of a Republican victory at the polls. Just whether that will prove the excuse rather than the reason remains to be seen. From a technical standpoint the market was due to break out of a rut that has stymied business as well as price alterations for the past two weeks. Perhaps it was just relief that the long political campaign was drawing to a close and that on Wednesday the air would be clearer.

Chrysler recorded a net advance of 2¾ points to a close of 84¾ on 15,300 shares; General Motors was ahead approximately a point at 60¾, while Studebaker gained 1¼ points.

STEEL UP

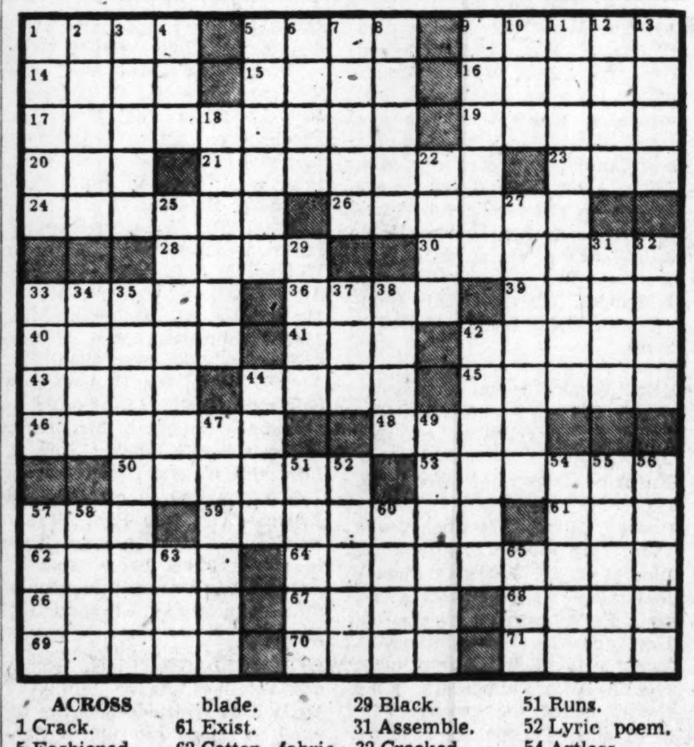

U. S. Steel showed a rise of ⅞ point to a rate of 39, with Republic and Bethlehem both raised 1⅛ points at 39½ and 49¼, respectively. A long list of rails climbed from 1 to more than 2 points as Southern Railway and Union Pacific proved the strongest spots in the division. Baltimore & Ohio, the most active in the group on 18,100 shares, advanced ¾ point at 22⅛.

Standard Oil of New Jersey added 1¾ points at 75⅝ with a similar increase in Cities Service. Wider gains appeared in Houston, Continental and Pure Oil. The televisions were paced by Zenith, which forged ahead 2⅜ points.

Potatoes

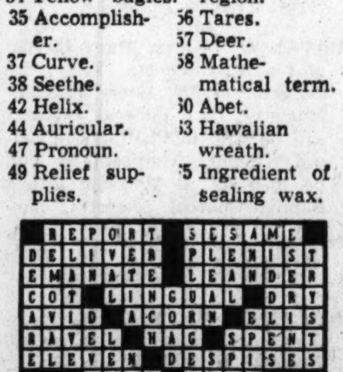

CHICAGO, Oct. 31—(AP)—(USDA)—Potatoes: Arrivals 82; total U. S. shipments 818; supplies moderate; demand moderate, demand steady, with slightly firmer underton fore best large stocks Colorado red McClures $4.75; Idaho russets, washed, $5.10 to $5.40; Minnesota-North Dakota Pontiacs, car pickouts, $3.50; Washington russets $4.75-5.00.

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle

They'll Do It Every Time — By Hatlo

Ollie Reeves

A Rhyme a Day

"—but public thinking has been centered on the candidates rather than the staggering amounts of money being spent by both sides."—Political column quote.

The old philosophers, it seems . . . had time to think and time for dreams . . . but in our era, I'm afraid . . . most of our thoughts are "ready made" . . . We let somebody else digest . . . the news and tell us what is best.

This campaign is a case in point . . . each side is trying to annoint . . . its fair-haired boy with frankincense . . . and myrrh, no doubt, at great expense . . . and, though I'm green as chlorophyll . . . I think I know who'll pay the bill . . . it won't be HIM, it won't be HER . . . that buys that frankincense and myrrh . . . It won't be THEM . . . it won't be THOSE . . . it will be US and, heaven knows . . . "US" has about all we can pay . . . to keep the howling wolves away.

This campaign costs a tidy sum . . . and where's that money coming from . . . somebody's spent a pile of jack . . . and they expect to get it back . . . but how they do it, no one knows . . . at least, I don't; but I suppose . . . the "bread upon the waters cast" . . . comes back, redoubled, pretty fast.

The old philosophers, no doubt . . . had minds to figure problems out . . . but thinking gets me so confused . . . I ask you, may I be excused?

Editor to Address Dairy Group Here

Edward Thom, editor of Olsen Publications, will deliver an address on "Tomorrow's Dairy Industry" at a meeting of the Atlanta Dairy Technology Society here Nov. 3.

The speaker, considered an authority on the dairy industry, is editor of "Ice Cream Review," "Milk Plant Monthly," and "National Butter and Cheese Journal."

The dinner meeting at which Thom will speak is scheduled at 6:45 p. m. in Brittain Hall on the Tech Campus. Following Thom's address the society will elect officers for next year.

Wholesale Prices Register Decline

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—(AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that average wholesale prices dropped two-tenths of one per cent in the week ended Oct. 28.

The decline was led by a sixtenths of one per cent drop in farm products with lower prices reported for fresh fruit, hogs, steers, cotton and eggs.

The wholesale price index declined to 110.4 per cent of 1947-49 prices.

TOO KIND TO SQUIRREL

DOWAGIAC, Mich.—(AP)—There's such a thing as carrying the "Be Kind to Dumb Animals" crusade too far. Doris Covert told police she slowed down her automobile to avoid hitting a squirrel crossing the road.

State Department To Brief New President on Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—(AP)—Government sources said today the winner of next week's presidential election will be invited to have a personal representative sit in on top-level foreign policy councils until the new administration takes office Jan. 20.

The invitation to send a liaison man to the State department will be extended regardless of whether General Eisenhower or Adlai Stevenson is elected, these sources said.

Such an arrangement will provide the smoothest possible transition in the field of foreign relations between the Truman administration and the incoming regime.

Some informed quarters regard the liaison plan as a tip-off that Secretary of State Acheson is ready to step down Jan. 20, even if the Democrats win.

Defense Secretary Lovett, who already has declared his intention to quit regardless of the election outcome, also is considering an invitation to the President-elect to send a representative to the Pentagon to take part in conferences on next year's military budget.

Officials said the liaison setup is necessary on foreign policy for several important reasons.

1. The Korean truce negotiations may be resumed at any time and the new administration should have a voice on any commitments it would be expected to carry out.

2. The United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York will continue until the Christmas holidays and American spokesmen there should know the attitude of a new administration on key international issues as they are debated.

3. Initial planning is under way for an important meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty nations scheduled to open in Paris on Dec. 15. There is some talk of asking the President-elect to send a special representatives to this meeting so American allies in Western Europe would know what plans made there would be carried out.

4. Foreign policy co-ordination also is necessary to plan foreign aid programs to be presented to the new Congress. Otherwise, planning would be stalled until well into next year when the new administration takes over.

Bull Brings $53,000

Constitution State News Service

KENSINGTON, Oct. 31—A 3-year-old Hereford bull from the Mountain Cove Farms was sold this week to Harry M. Sloate of Hartford, Conn., for $53,000. The animal, Baca Homebuilder 14th, brought what is believed to be a record figure for this area.

Students Asked To Help Parents With Tax Returns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—(AP). The Internal Revenue Bureau announced a plan today for teaching high school children to help their parents fill out income tax returns.

The bureau said one in every four returns filed has some sort of mistake. It hopes the youngsters, by learning correct procedures at school, will be able to guide their parents and cut down on the number of errors.

The bureau will provide schools with instructional aids to help them teach the correct procedures. The aids include enlarged reproductions of income tax forms and withholding statements.

The bureau also will invite school officials to call in internal revenue agents to lend teachers a hand.

Lynch Ousted From Sheriff's Race in Dade

TRENTON, Oct. 31—(AP)—J. W. Lynch, who made an unsuccessful primary race from prison for renomination as sheriff of Dade County and then entered as an independent, today was disqualified as a candidate.

The disqualification was by County Ordinary A. W. Peck and County Attorney Maddux Hale on the ground that Lynch did not file as a candidate 90 days or more before Nov. 4, as required by law.

This leaves the race to Sheriff F. C. Graham, the regular Democratic nominee.

The county ballots have already been printed and bear Lynch's name. However, officials said they would not be reprinted. Votes cast for Lynch will not be counted, they said.

Obituaries

Palmer Walthour

Palmer Walthour, 80, co-founder of Walthour and Hood Co. here in 1907, died Friday in a private hospital. Mr. Walthour, 839 Briarcliff Rd., N. E., had been in failing health since his retirement in 1951. He was a brother of the late famed bicycle racer, Bobby Walthour.

Born in the famous Pulaski House in Savannah, Mr. Walthour came to Atlanta in 1885. He was board chairman of Walthour and Hood Co. until his retirement. A shriner and a Scottish Rite Mason, Lodge No. 96, he was also an elder in the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson and Son.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Annice MacGlashan of Savannah, and a son, Charles H. Walthour of Atlanta.

Mrs. Amanda Hansen

Mrs. Amanda Hansen, former Atlantan, died Friday in Detroit, Mich. She was the mother of Mrs. Charles Wolff of Atlanta and was 85 years of age.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel of J. Austin Dillon Co. Burial will be in Westview Cemetery.

Also surviving is a son, Hugo Hansen of Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Hattie A. Gunnells

Mrs. Hattie A. Gunnells, 56, of 1386 Bluefield Dr., S. W., died Friday in a private hospital.

Born in Harris County, Mrs. Gunnells came to Atlanta as a young girl. Her husband, Henry L. Gunnells, preceded her in death in 1942. She was a member of the Colonial Hills Baptist Church.

The funeral will be at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Colonial Hills Baptist Church. The Rev. Paul Van Gorder will officate and burial will be in Westview Cemetery.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. J. W. Torbush, College Park; two sons, Roy M. and R. L. Gunnells, Hapeville; one sister, Mrs. Charles M. Brown, Atlanta, and four grandchildren.

R. A. Fine, Mercantile Leader, Dies

Raymond A. Fine, 70, of 3047 Piedmont Rd., N. E., died Friday in a private hospital here. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday in the Spring Hill Chapel. Dr. David Marx and Rabbi Jacob Rothschild will officiate. Burial will be in Crest Lawn Cemetery.

A native of Vilkomir, Lithuania, Mr. Fine came to the United States at the age of 17. Before coming to Georgia, he was employed in Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C. He engaged in the mercantile business in Toccoa, Hawkinsville, Macon and Marietta, which was his home from 1910 until he came to Atlanta a year ago.

Retiring from his business in 1938, Mr. Fine was in failing health for years, but it did not become acute until three weeks before his death.

He was a member of the Rotary Club of Marietta and had been an honorary member of that club since his retirement. He was a member of the Hebrew Benevolent Temple, and also was active in B'nai B'rith. He was a Shriner and a 32d degree Mason. He also was a member of the Progressive Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Pauline Jacobs Fine; a son, Joseph J. Fine, an attorney; two grandchildren, Jonee and Robert J. Fine, all of Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. Bessie Ginsberg, Dalton; Mrs. Birdie Pearl, Atlanta; Mrs. Sarah Rubin, Atlanta, and a brother, Sam Fine, Atlanta.
